EDITORIAL ALL CHANGE!

Little did I imagine when I left 64 MAGAZINE for pastures new that barely three months later I'd be back sitting in Andy's chair and in control! I have to admit it wasn't a difficult decision to make – it took me all of about five seconds to consider the offer when it was made – should've held out for more money I suppose, ah well! Anyway, despite what a lot of people are saying about the N64 (and I think even Andy was beginning to think the same way towards the end) I reckon that the N64 has still got an awful lot to offer its loyal fans and that's why it's so great to be back. No one can argue that the console isn't approaching the end of its natural life as Project Dolphin moves ever closer, but in the meantime we've got a lot of excellent games on the way! Basically it's like this: think of the last few years as the 'learning period' for N64 developers. We've had good games, we've had bad games, but every game has shown us something new and special about the N64 (even if it's only that games really can be so bad that you'd pay someone not to make you play it – you know who you are Carmageddon 64!) However, travesties of nature like that SCI dud aside, we're now in a position where programmers and designers have just about probed every secret that the N64 has to offer and thus we have every right to expect that the games which are due to appear on the N64 in the coming year are going to be the cream of the crop and well worth waiting for. They should keep us going well into the launch period of the Dolphin and beyond! And of course 64 MAGAZINE will be here to see it, giving you the most up-to-date news, the most accurate and fair reviews and generally letting you know what a great console the N64 is and will continue to be! For my first issue in the 'big chair' I thought I'd give you guys something special, so hence we're proud to present the first ever, world exclusive review of Daikatana! Of course we've got loads of other stuff too including Ridge Racer 64, Tony Hawk's Skateboarding and a complete guide to Toy Story 2. Oh... and there's also our brand new 'Not Nintendo!' section at the back where we cover anything that we reckon is particularly cool but not necessarily N64-related. Suffice to say: stick with 64 MAGAZINE – it's been great so far and this year it's gonna get even better!

PERFECT DARK SLIPS AGAIN!

The unthinkable happens
one more time!

Not two days after talking to THE Games and receiving a solemn promise that the release date of May 19 was a definite and if the game slipped again then it wouldn't be by 'more than a couple of days', we discovered that – to everyone's horror – the release date for Perfect Dark had now moved to June... and worse than that: 30 June! That's practically July! We've been assured that this is the absolutely final never-going-to-change release date, but after the last few months... well let's just say that we've got all our fingers crossed!

We also reported to you last issue the exclusive news (which our so-called rivals apparently still haven't picked up on) that Perfect Dark was no longer going to feature the option to map in your faces with the aid of a Game Boy camera. Rare has now confirmed that the option was dropped for moral reasons rather than technological setbacks. Ever conscious of increasing violence within our society, Rare are worried about the concerns raised by many that kids might want to go out and kill their mates after shooting at their on-screen personalities. In other, less negative Rare news it's rumoured that the next project for the Perfect Dark team is going to be a game involving dinosaurs... hopefully this time without all the delays!

SOUTH POKE

Pokémon comes to South Park

An episode of South Park recently shown on Sky One was all about a 'stupid pointless Japanese craze' apparently sweeping the US called Chin Poko Mon – sound familiar? In the episode the kids can't figure out why they have an urge to collect all the toys but do it anyway, become brainwashed and start speaking fluent Japanese! Perhaps those Mexican Catholics are right! Unfortunately Channel 4 is repeating the old series at the moment so it'll be a while before this episode hits the screens of anyone who doesn't have Satellite or Cable.

OFFICIAL: POKEMON IS EVIL!

The Mexican Roman Catholic Church has blamed Pokémon for violence and abnormal behaviour amongst children... stop laughing this is serious! A weekly Mexican publication blamed the cartoons and Manga, for apparently 'inciting violence and sexual perversion' from its fans. So there you go – you have been warned!

PROBLEMS WITH OGRE SPEAK

Ogre Battle hits the language barrier

Wargame fans won't be happy to hear that Ogre Battle has been put back in the States because of problems with translation. It's apparently taking longer than was anticipated for all the Japanese text to be converted and the game isn't expected in the US now until August. What does this mean for us? Well the game hasn't even been confirmed for the UK thus far so if you're waiting to crush some green skins don't hold your breath just yet.

DON'T CALL ME BABE!

Pamela Anderson on your N64!

Ubi Soft has signed a deal which will bring us a Pamela Anderson game based on her current smash-hit – but incredibly dire – VIP television show. For those of you lucky enough never to have seen the show, Pam plays a high-profile bodyguard protecting an assortment of customers. With lame plotlines and an approach to realism which makes the A-Team look like a documentary series, we've just got to hope that the videogame is better!

The latest news and rumours about Nintendo's next console...

Despite sarcastic comments from all sides Nintendo are sticking to their guns and swear that the Dolphin will be out before the end of the year across the world. Sceptics out there will be shocked to hear that Dolphin chip producers IBM have already met their targets – producing over 1,000,000 copper chips in the past four months. Of course there may not be any games available to play on the machine when it's released, but that's beside the point!

One shocking piece of news about the Dolphin this month is that Nintendo have apparently patented trademarks for a variety of motion sensor controls. This could mean that there is a tilt pack add-on heading our way from the big N or that the official Dolphin controller will utilise state of the art motion sensors! Let's hope it's the latter.

Rumours abound from various companies that we've spoken to that the sought-after Dolphin development kits have already started arriving at some of the big games development houses. An industry insider claimed that high-profile names like Core Design had received kits, while other companies confirmed that they've been promised them very soon and may well have already got their hands on one when you read this. One source who asked not to be named, claimed that when the Dolphin kit was delivered to his company by the end of the first day everyone was so impressed with it that the PS2 Dev kit found itself left all on its lonesome in a corner!

WIN! 10 COPIES OF BATTLETANX: GLOBAL ASSAULT

BattleTanx: Global Assault is a fantastic game as you'll all know from our review of the game last issue (what do you mean you didn't read it? Shame on you!) In the game you get to travel the world, meeting all sorts of interesting people and destroying their prized national monuments. The first BattleTanx was good and with improved graphics, more tanks and even more multiplayer options this one's just fabulous!

If your bank balance is looking a little sad though and you can't afford to shell out the readies for a copy of this superb game, then today just might be your lucky day. 3DO has rather generously given us 10 copies of its tank combat title to give away. All you've got to do is answer the following question which will be incredibly easy if you did read the review last issue, but a little bit trickier if you didn't...

How many different kinds of tank are there on offer in BattleTanx: Global Assault?

Stick your answer on a postcard or the back of a sealed envelope and send it to: "I Wanna Destroy The World Compo", 64 MAGAZINE, Paragon Publishing, St Peters Road, Bournemouth, Dorset, BH1 2JS to reach us no later than 20 April 2000. Good luck tank fans!

Final Fantasy Fan

Dear 64 MAGAZINE,

I enjoy reading your magazine but lately a lot of the game types that I like haven't been selling. I like games like the hot selling Final Fantasy series. I've been waiting for a game like that to come on the market for the N64 but I've just been disappointed for three years.

Could you find out, or if you already know, could you reply in a section of your next magazine please, if you know about a game like Final Fantasy coming out on the N64 market.

Also I have Zelda: The Ocarina Of Time and what I'd like to know is: is the sequel going to be different in some ways or is it just going to be a copy of the original big time Nintendo hit?

Matthew Thatcher, Queensland, Australia

It's safe to say that the Final Fantasy series won't be appearing on the N64 at this stage in its life. One of the reasons that the games never made it in the past, may have been that until recently Sony had an exclusive contract to publish Squaresoft's (they of Final Fantasy fame) products in Europe. That's not to say that the FF series might not yet make an appearance on the Dolphin, although we should warn you that it's already been confirmed that three more Final Fantasy games (taking them up to 11) will appear on the PlayStation2. N64 RPG fans

PRIZE WINNER

Who's A Failure?

Dear 64 MAGAZINE,

I am writing to you to ask why everyone – even N64 owners themselves – are describing the N64 as a failure? As you stated last issue the N64 has a user base of 1.6 million in the UK! How anyone can describe this achievement as a failure is beyond me. Obviously the N64 has not been as successful as the PSX but then again, nothing else has, ever. The N64 has some of the greatest games known to man: Goldeneye, Zelda, ISS, Jet Force Gemini, Turok, etc and I think the fact that the N64 is produced by the computer games company with the least marketing sense in the world, Nintendo, is testament to how good the machine is. So in other words, let's appreciate what we've got: a bloody good console! PS What has happened to Royston J Kimber? Jonathan Magill, Esher, Surrey

Quite right Jonathan! To say that the N64 is a failure is to take a very black and white view of the market: ie: PlayStation wins, N64 are going to have to content themselves with titles like Hybrid Heaven and the forthcoming Aidyn Chronicles. And no, we're fairly sure Zelda 2 won't just be a copy of the first game!

A Rubbish Gamer Writes...

Dear 64 MAGAZINE,

I'm writing for two reasons. Firstly I would like to comment on the hardness of N64 games. I'm sad to say I own Mortal Kombat Trilogy on the N64. During the 'good old days' of the Mega Drive I had every Mortal Kombat game and found them fairly easy but now I can't even complete Mortal Kombat Trilogy on novice let alone champion!

Games like Command & Conquer, Mario 64, Battlezone and Quake 2 all seem sufficiently harder on the N64 than on the PC or PlayStation.

It's a well-known fact that manufacturers make games easier for the Americans, does this mean I'm a rubbish player? Or that manufacturers consider N64 owners to be more intelligent than PlayStation owners? I'm so stuck on my games that each month I'm trying to win an Xplorer cartridge from you.

Secondly I, like many other 64 MAGAZINE readers, have noticed how much attention the

PlayStation gets even though the N64 is better. I think this is partly because the games are cheaper and easier on the loses. In actual fact the N64 is a hugely successful machine which is approaching the end of its natural life as the next generation consoles approach. That's not to say that the N64 is dead by any means! We still have many very promising titles on the horizon and there's life in the old black plastic lump yet, plus as you point out – if the N64 has managed to do this well with what does seem to be slightly less than over-the-top marketing, well, just think how many it might have sold had things been different! In Nintendo's defence though it's probably fair to say that the price and quality of the games have the N64 targeted at a more discerning gamer. If you want thousands of games many of which are good but many others having been created in about a month which are thus complete pants then you buy a PlayStation. If you want hundreds of games the majority of which are superbly playable (Superman and Carmageddon 64 excepted!) then you buy an N64! It's a case of quality over quantity and even then 1.6 million is a fairly hefty quantity!

Oh... and Royston J Kimber's been away for a bit – but as you'll no doubt be aware by now: he's back!

PlayStation and so it appeals to the younger generation. I'm not worried about the N64 phasing out of shops but I do think Nintendo should bring out a really brilliant game that non-N64 owners would buy an N64 for.

J Donnellan, Oldham

Hello! Goldeneye? Zelda? Perfect Dark? We can tell you for a fact that Goldeneye alone resulted in several people in the Paragon offices buying an N64. Having said that the PlayStation 'gets more attention' as you put it (presumably you mean in the mainstream media – it's not like we mention it much), because it's been around longer and more people own one – simple as that.

As for games being too hard – well here at 64 MAGAZINE we have for a long time lamented the fact that games these days are far easier than they were in the 'good old days' (the real 'good old days' being the era of the BBC Micro, the 48K ZX Spectrum and the Commodore 64). In those days a game cost you a fiver and would keep you going for months, whereas now a game costs 40-odd quid and if it lasts 50 hours it's considered big! We reckon you might just be a bit rubbish at playing games – what are everyone else's thoughts on the difficulty issue?

We're Not Kids!

Dear 64 MAGAZINE,

I am sure I'm not the only concerned N64 owner out there worried about the age of the audience that Nintendo are marketing their new games to. I am fed up with games like Pokemon Snap where you go around taking pictures of cute little animals – I would much prefer it if you shot them with a shotgun not a camera – and they have the cheek to charge 50 quid for them! When are Nintendo going to realise that the majority of N64 owners aren't six-year-olds but are teenagers like myself?

Give me a good old shoot-'em-up like Goldeneye or a nice gory game like Resident Evil 2 any day!

James Roberts, Cuckfield

Hmm... 'Pokémon Massacre'... interesting idea! Not sure that Nintendo will go for it though. As for age, it's probably a bit of a generalisation to say that the majority of N64 owners are teenagers – our mail-bag alone shows a far more diverse readership stretching across most age ranges. What Nintendo really needs to do is to make sure that they've got enough titles to satisfy gamers of all ages. Having said that – you want Goldeneye and Resident Evil 2? Doesn't the N64 already have those games?

Pokémon Problems

Dear 64 MAGAZINE,

I am writing to you in the hope that you can help me. I have tried to obtain a copy of the Official Pokémon Master Guide magazine for my son, from several major retail outlets without success.

I would be grateful if you could tell me whether you can send me a copy and if so how much it costs.

Thanking you in advance.
Shirley Linch, Surrey

We had a quick look at the magazine you mentioned Shirley and quite frankly it's not all that hot! However, we just so happen to have produced our very own Pokémon title, Total Games Guide To Pokémon which (as it says on the front) is the essential guide to all things Pokémon! It's on sale in all good newsagents for the bargain price of £1.95, but since we're so nice at 64 MAGAZINE we're sending you a copy totally gratis. Happy Pokémon chasing!

Project X

Dear 64 MAGAZINE,

Not long ago I came across a mysterious article on something called the X-Box. As I read through I discovered that it would be the fastest console to come out yet. It would have extremely good graphics and be compatible with some PC games. Yet as another loyal Nintendo follower I dismissed the idea as destined to fail. After the shock PlayStation gave Nintendo I felt that Nintendo may have an unexpected rival. If possible could 64 MAGAZINE check on this so that we can all be prepared?

Yours most aware,
Tyler Allen, Hammersmith

The X-Box is a highly secret project, which looks like being Microsoft's attempt to enter into the console market. Up until very recently it was just a rumour, but its existence has now been confirmed by none other than Bill 'I've got a lot of cash' Gates. As for being the fastest console or having the best graphics – well if it's going to go up against Dolphin and PS2 then the X-Box is gonna have to be pretty damn good! Watch out for a possible feature on Microsoft's baby in a future issue of 64 MAGAZINE.

After A Job

Dear 64 MAGAZINE,

Do game companies care about their customers these days? I'm ten years-old and my ambition is to become a game designer, so I've written to many game companies asking for their advice on how to get into the games industry.

Electronic Arts wrote back about five days later with a satisfying collection of tips and a booklet to help me plan my own game idea. Midway were next to reply and they gave me a few useful tips. GT Interactive's reply came two days later and they told me to write to a company called Interactive Selection, but all they did was tell me that I should get myself a PC with access to the Internet. They said that I could get some tips on how to get into the game industry there! Cheeky, isn't it?

THE Games gave me Rare's address and a copy of the official Nintendo magazine which I threw in the bin. Games companies really don't care about what their customers think, do they? They just want to make loads of money. THE thought that they could shut me up with an official magazine just because I'm a child.

Is it worth writing to Rare or are they just going to give me a useless reply?

Alex Clarke, Manchester

We do feel that perhaps you're being a little harsh on the games companies Alex (except maybe THE – we're fairly sure that sending copies of ONM is forbidden by the Geneva convention). Er... anyway, it sounds like you got a fairly good response, especially when you consider that these companies get bombarded every week with thousands of letters from people demanding free stuff (a large number from Mike alone!) The fact is that there is no easy way to get into the games industry aside from hard work and perseverance. First though, decide what you want to be. 'Games designer' covers a wide range of jobs from writing and storyboarding through programming to playtesting. And don't dismiss the Internet so easily. There's a lot of useful information out there, you've just gotta find it! (That was a 64 MAGAZINE public service announcement.)

The old-fashioned frantic button-basher returns.

Arcade classic Track and Field was renowned throughout the world for its overnight production of blistered fingers and arthritic thumbs, not to mention broken joysticks! The old arcade machines may have been left to die in the dusty corners of your local arcade but Track and Field is coming back with a vengeance. Get the buckets of ice and packs of frozen peas ready to cool those thumbs and fingers all over again because this game is more addictive than any class A drug!

For those of you not old enough to know the original Track and Field the idea is as simple as they come. You take control of super athletes from 12 countries across real events using a grand total of three buttons to control their movement! Take for example the hurdles: from the firing of the gun you have to madly tap C Left and C Right repeatedly while using Z to jump each time you reach a hurdle. As well as the hurdles you get shot-put, pole vault, 100 metre dash, discus, long jump, high jump, javelin and swimming to name but a few. Even the notoriously difficult hammer throw has returned to annoy you once more!

It was this simplicity that made the original game so addictive and fun, especially when battling against your mates. A two-player mode is fortunately something which has been kept in for this updated International Track and Field 2000 version. What has been changed for this instalment however is the graphics. These have been brought slap bang up to date with a 3-D makeover. The N64 version looks stunningly gorgeous with some superb high-res action courtesy of the expansion pack. To finish the modern look off it also features some lovely motion-captured animation. Look out for this retro remake next month. ■

Resident Evil Zero

The dawn of the dead!

▼ What do you mean you haven't got a ticket? Pay the price or suffer the punishment of my revolver zombie scum!

If you're just about getting over playing Resident Evil 2 then don't relax yet because the king of survival horror is coming back to scare you all over again. In an exclusive N64-only game you get to play out the events leading up to the original STARS outing in the first Resident Evil title which was such a hit on the PlayStation. The prequel not only helps to clear up the story behind the events of the first game but also provides an insight into the beginnings of the evil Umbrella corporation.

The main character in the game is Rebecca Chambers. Fans of the series will know her as the rookie STARS member from the first game that you had to save if you played as the character of Chris Redfield. As you can see from the screenshots the first part of this game is set on a train. If this sounds a little too simple for you then don't worry because Capcom is promising that this will be the most difficult Resident Evil game to date! For starters the item box system allowing you to save ammo and health has been removed from this next instalment. Needless to say that Resident Evil Zero has some suitably devious puzzles and some all-new monsters as well as the trademark flesh-eating zombies. There are also other – as yet unconfirmed – characters to control in the game and some new non-player characters who provide help for you as you go. Tear out your eyes and keep them glued to 64

MAGAZINE for future news on Resident Evil Zero! ■

Aidyn Chronicle

An RPG on the N64? Let the chronicles begin...

If you are a devoted N64 owner then this may come as quite a shock, so you'd better sit down. As we speak an RPG is being developed for none other than the Nintendo 64 itself! For those of you who play nothing other than N64 games this may take a bit of explaining: You see RPG stands for Role Playing Game! Not since the appalling attempt that was Quest 64, has there been a proper good old fashioned dungeons and dragons RPG on our beloved machine.

is going to put an end to this drought and the way things are looking it should set Quest 64 firmly in its place! In the game you play an orphaned kid called Alaron who has been adopted by the king and trained up to be a living, breathing knight. A bit curious about his parentage Alaron sets off into the world of Aidyn to discover his roots which could take some time as Aidyn consists of 19 different locations. These including towns, seaports and mountain ranges and are packed with Aidyn's three different races and many varied societies.

It goes without saying that you need to be careful of the company you keep in this game. Sticking true to classic RPG form, one of the best things about Aidyn Chronicles is that you get to choose your party of three characters from an impressive selection of ten. First up is Brenna a master thief and like Alaron an orphan taken in by the king (is this King kind or what?) Then there's Abrecan the loyal captain of the guard and expert swordsman. Next up is the alchemist Godric, muscleman Arturo, expert tracker Becan and poet Baird. To finish your selection you have alchemist Rheda with a passion for healing, another thief called Keelin and Donovan, the archetypal swashbuckling hero.

Not only does this choice of characters offer great aesthetic variety, but every single one of them also has his or her own story line and dialogue! This being an RPG they all also have their own sets of statistics and special skills which come in handy at separate points in the adventure. Basically don't expect your average thug to know how to pick a lock or your run-of-the-mill thief to excel in a sword-fight. Of course the generic experience points gained can be spent on improving attributes, but wizards still remain the best magic casters. In case you're wondering there are over 50 magic spells in this game for you to use and abuse!

Battle in the game is turn-based but surprisingly not only do you have full control over each of the four characters but you can also move each of them around the screen during combat. So although you have to let the bad guys get their shots in there's nothing to stop you jumping behind a boulder for cover. Each character also brings their own skills to the battle, so if you're the evasive type, pick a thief who will quite happily stab someone in the back. The bad news is that British RPG fans might also be caught from behind, because Aidyn Chronicles hasn't yet been confirmed a UK release. Cross your fingers and keep your eyes on 64 MAGAZINE for further updates. ■

Tarzan

Aaaaaaaaaa-woooooooooooooo-aaaaaaaaaaaaaaah!

▼ One of the levels in the game is an elephant stampede, where little Tarzan must keep ahead of the pack or get squashed!

The story of Tarzan is one of the most recent in a long line of classic tales to get the Disney treatment. The movie itself is colourful, funny and musical and that more or less describes the game too! As in the film you join Tarzan when he's just a little tyke, learning to survive in the hostile jungle. After a few stages he then grows up and you take charge of a bigger, badder, more macho vine-slinger – although the gameplay stays more-or-less the same. Tarzan himself is a fairly versatile chap and can swing from vines, climb cliffs and 'tree surf' (if you've seen the film you'll already know about this – our loin-cloth clad hero basically slides along tree branches.) Also you can pound on the ground (handy for uncovering hidden bonuses) and power jump on certain rather bouncy animals and plants.

Although the game is basically a fairly linear side-scrolling platformer, developer Eurocom has made interesting use of the 3-D landscape to ensure Tarzan isn't just wandering in the same direction all the time. He comes in and out of the screen and the landscape moves so that it seems as if he's off in all directions. If you've played ▲ Here we have a fully-grown Tarzan setting out to... erm, conquer the jungle (or something). When Tarzan's bigger, everything else seems smaller!

UK TARZAN

Mini-game Madness

Scattered throughout every level of the game are sketches (four per level). Find all four pieces on a level and you get access to a special bonus stage where there are no bad guys, only lots of lovely goodies for you to collect.

▲ He runs, he jumps, he... somersaults? Tarzan can get a bit more of a bounce by making use of certain animals and plants.

Mystical Ninja 2 then you'll have some idea what we're on about. Just like in that game although the path Tarzan must take is fairly fixed, he is able to wander down various tracks that branch off from the main path leading to bonus items, extra health, etc.

To say that this game is gorgeous would be doing it a disservice. It's absolutely outstanding! The game designers have obviously worked long and hard on the graphics and the result is a game which is amazingly easy on the eye. The jungle is lavishly detailed and packed with small creatures like lizards, birds and monkeys some of which are there to hinder you and others that are just there to make the game look nice! Which brings us on to one strange point. Surely Tarzan is supposed to be friends with the animals? In this game you've got the cutest, most cuddly, most fuzzy collection of creatures you're ever likely to meet outside of a petting zoo and yet Tarzan has to stab them, slash them or smack them with fruit! Surely Tarzan's enemies should be fearsome beasts, slaving from their respective mouths? You feel almost guilty as you hack at the colourful little frogs or lob fruit at the cute jungle cats, particularly the ones that cry when you hit them! Maybe one of the game's graphic artists got mugged by a herd of delinquent hamsters as a child or something...

Cruelty to cute and cuddly creatures aside, the sound in this game is surprisingly good too, particularly so for an N64 title. Eurocom has managed to cram absolutely oodles of speech into the game and the music's not bad either! This is definitely one game that looks set to do the N64 proud, so watch out for our full review next issue! ■

Gorillagram

At certain points in the game (fairly frequently on the first stage) you find a gorilla icon. Grab this and Tarzan's friend Terk (she's a gorilla) comes running up and offers you some (usually fairly useful) advice. Isn't that nice?

Turok 3: The Shadow Of Oblivion

Oblivion is on the way!

After a quick stop off at the galactic battles that were the Rage Wars, Turok is returning once more to save the entire universe! The story goes something like this. When dinosaur hunter and all round good guy Turok destroyed the Primagen's lightship in Turok 2, he also unwittingly managed to annoy somebody. This wouldn't have been so bad had the 'somebody' in question not been a huge cosmic entity known as Oblivion who has been feeding off of the universe since the beginning of time! Apparently Oblivion got a little grazed by the destruction of the lightship and is consequently acting like a very large bear with an extremely sore head! This is of course where Turok comes in, because as the holder of the Light Burden he is the only one who can defeat Oblivion and he needs your help to do it!

Spanning 20 levels and covering such new locations as underwater military bases and futuristic Blade Runner-style cities, Turok 3 has you playing as not only the Indian dino-hunter himself but also as another hitherto unseen character. You see, apparently Turok is not the sole holder of the Light Burden, instead he shares the responsibility with someone called Danielle Fireseed – a sister perhaps?

As you might expect this isn't the only new feature in the game: Turok 3 also includes the option of saving at any point during gameplay, contains 24 upgradeable weapons and presents you with 40 different enemies! To top it all off Turok 3: Shadow Of Oblivion also includes 48 unique multiplayer maps as well as some all new multiplayer games like 'Colour Tag'. Expect Oblivion to arrive on the N64 this coming September! ■

NBA In The Zone 2000

Get in the zone!

▼ No basketball game would be complete without replays and In The Zone 2000 has loads of them.

One of these days the basketball game buying public are going to wake up, realise they have fifty NBA games on their shelf already and have second thoughts. Until that apocalyptic day, when the smell of coffee wafts through the air it looks like these games just aren't going to stop coming! So for all you gullible shoppers out there, here comes an all new update of NBA In The Zone.

Running true to form this 2000 instalment offers updated stats, updated players, slightly better graphics, better animations and... a cherry on top. The cherry for this cake is an all new 'create a player' option – not very original you say? Well this isn't just your usual 'slap a silly head on a fat body' mode. Instead you'll get to create, train and follow your alter ego through the NBA! Plus if you do well in the 'Success Mode' your stats even increase!

Another new addition to In The Zone 2000 are the tactical plays. Before a match you can assign a variety of tactics to different sets of button combinations. Hitting those buttons during play sends your players off in the predetermined formation, ready to make the play. For those who don't want such complications you'll be pleased to hear that the game can also be played using just two buttons. If these new bells and whistles get your pulse racing and your Nike Air pumped up, then keep an eye out for the full review next issue. ■

▲ The crowd watch with anticipation as the ball makes its way to the basket – unfortunately this one missed by a hair.

Ever wondered why people sell you games that turn out to be crap?

If so, these lads could be your saviours..
the boys from Wilrons Ltd Reveal all..

So what's it all about?

Basically, when buying games from larger companies in this market, there's no point in asking for their advice on games because they just don't know anything about them until they read the back cover. (which by the way does happen every time I ask about a game in a shop). These people are here for one reason only, SELL SELL SELL.

I mean, you don't dial 123 and ask the speaking clock to explain Quantum Physics.

When spending your hard earned cash, you want to know that when you get home, your game is going to be worth every penny.. and that's where we can help.

OK.. if I were to call and ask whether I would enjoy a certain game or not you can offer me better advice than I'm already receiving?

YES! that's the whole point of us being here..

all of our staff are devoted gamers and we all like different genres so between us we always play these games. After asking you a few questions about the type of games you enjoy, we can suggest the suitable games for you to buy and if we think a game is crap, we will tell you. We could also help you out of awkward levels and offer other tips to help with little problems.

So do you charge more for all these extras?

No, our prices are very competitive. But our service doesn't end with a sale..that's where it begins. Once you have made a purchase, you become a 'friend' of Wilrons and we believe in taking care of our friends. We will keep you up-to-date with new releases, special offers, information and we will even phone you time to time to check how you are getting on with your games & products..

Right, I want five games for my Dreamcast....how much friend? ha ha (laughs) - Well, I'd advise you to look at our 'friends options'..

Option One is five games for £165 to your door or Option Two is three games for £105 to your door.

With those you do make very noticeable savings.

Actually, joking aside Dazza.. I will take five games.....

(laughs) - Sure, you know the number. 020 7237 3342.

ATEI Arcade Show 2000

Every year Earls Court plays host to a trade show the like of which London has never seen (well okay, the like of which London has never seen since the same time last year – happy?). Amusement Trades Exhibition International (ATEI) is the annual Arcade Games show and it's where all the hot new machines that manufacturers hope to have appearing in your local arcades later in the year get their first airing.

The main purpose of the show is for buyers from all over the world to go along and see the games so that they can decide if they want to stock them. Thus the majority of the show's visitors are serious suited business-types who wander around a positive Aladdin's cave of free play arcade action looking – if truth be told – often a little bored.

This year though there were a few extra people in attendance at ATEI because Roy and a small team of Paragon journos managed to bypass the security and get into the show, where they found some mouth-wateringly good games on display!

Let loose in the cavernous hall of Earls Court, Olympia our intrepid adventurers tried to sample every game possible in the limited time they had available to them, which bearing in mind that all the games were set on infinite credits and thus rather tricky to stop playing once you'd started, was no small task!

As they wandered around the show our illustrious journos would pause in front of likely-looking games for as long as possible without drawing attention to themselves. Then to allay any suspicions that they might in fact not actually be traders looking to buy but instead just journalists out for a little fun, one member of the party would announce rather loudly something along the lines of: "Hmm, I like it! Put me down for 40 of them" and everyone would then scurry off before the dealers could make them sign anything.

Using this rather daft technique our group managed to make its way through the entire show, trying out all the best games and quietly laughing at the businessmen in their smart suits who looked extremely uncomfortable as they tested out the latest offerings from arcade giants like Namco and Sega. What follows is what Roy and the others picked out as the highlights of the show. They weren't necessarily the biggest games, or even the newest because many of the games on show have probably already reached your local arcade, but the games featured on the following pages are quite simply the ones that everyone agreed were the most fun to play!

▲ It's a Time Crisis 2 machine and it's set on free play! You'd think that this bloke would be a little more excited by that, wouldn't you?

▲ What's going on? These aren't arcade games! ATEI was packed with the toy distributors that sell the prizes for the 'lucky grab' machines.

To The Arcade Show!

RUSH 2049

Midway's latest driving game is a real cracker that combines excellent handling and some breathtaking tracks with spectacular jumps and lots of time-saving short cuts. This sequel to San Francisco Rush and the far more impressive Rush 2 offers a choice of six different cars, each of which has its own unique look and feel. Fans of the previous two games which have both been turned into N64 titles will be glad to know that the mad high-flying action which made both SF Rush and Rush 2 such fun to play has been retained for Rush 2049, while the graphics and speed have been improved. As the title of the game suggests Rush 2049 is set in the future so if anything the tracks are even more outlandish and jam-packed with hidden features than in the previous two games! Rush 2049 also has an added feature that the previous two titles didn't – the inclusion of a password check-in system which records your performance and makes it possible for you to continue with your game at a later date. The best news is that an N64 conversion of this top title can be expected to arrive sometime later on in the year!

▲ Like its predecessors Rush 2049 handles just beautifully and contains all sorts of cool hidden short cuts.

▲ You get a choice of six different futuristic-looking cars to race with and they all look pretty darn impressive! Fancy taking this one for a spin?

Off Road Thunder is large and loud. At the arcade fair there seemed to be no shortage of willing gamers.

► To spice up the day a little Midway were running Off Road Thunder contests. The winner of each race got a free T-Shirt... oooh!

OFF-ROAD THUNDER

Off-road trucking is apparently a really big thing in the States but it's never really taken off over here for some reason – possibly something to do with the fact that some of the US trucks are so big that there's nowhere in Britain with enough space to accommodate them! Previous monster truck games haven't exactly rocked the world but it has to be said that this one is looking pretty darn tasty. The control system for one thing is rather excellent and really lets you get a good feel for the track. Every circuit is pretty wild and there's good variety in the scenery, plus each of them is also packed with crazy San Francisco Rush-style jumps. While it's not the most original game in the world Off Road Thunder is well-worth a blast!

CRISIS ZONE

Hot on the heels of Time Crisis and the rather imaginatively named Time Crisis 2 comes Crisis Zone. The previous machines were both tremendous fun and so this was one game that grabbed our attention immediately. Like the games that came before it Crisis Zone gives you a gun and a foot pedal which lets you duck into cover to avoid enemy shots, but this time around instead of a measly pistol you're armed with a seriously deadly machine gun! The action is fast and furious and the graphics are quite simply superb. Practically everything on the screen can be destroyed and it's incredibly satisfying cutting a swath through beautifully detailed shops and restaurants in pursuit of your opponents. Crisis Zone is a fantastic game that just kept us coming back for more. We want this game now!

◀ 64 MAGAZINE's Deputy Editor takes aim... and misses everything! If it hadn't been for the Quest For Fame game Roy would never have left!

▲ There were plenty of Crisis Zone machines for either single-player or link-up play. But we couldn't get the other people off them!

◀ There's nothing like a huge over-sized casing for your game to really draw in the crowds. Imagine having this one in your front room!

▼ The street luges crash down the slopes at perilous speeds! You can race in all sorts of different locations – we particularly recommend the San Francisco track!

▲ What's the deal with all these fishing games that have become so popular? What's wrong with just shooting stuff?

▼ Okay, so the control chair does look a little weird, but take our word for it, once you're sitting in it the whole thing is absolutely brilliant!

ROLLING EXTREME

This rather strange-looking game instantly grabbed our attention due to the weird control chairs. It turned out to be a racing game based around the ultra-fast sport of street lugging, with a bit of fighting and some tricks thrown in for good measure. Once you've got comfortable and gotten over the peculiar control method you soon find yourself hightailing it down the urban slopes at ridiculous speeds! This is a game that would be great to see on the N64 because it's tremendous fun however it must be said that the sitting position and the unique control method contributes an awful lot to the overall excitement. It probably just wouldn't be the same playing it with an ordinary joystick while sitting on a comfortable sofa!

SHOW

▲ Proof if proof were needed that Roy really is a top guitar player! Well... top when all you need to do is strum in time to the music anyway!

◀ Roy gets on down to the sound of... well, of himself! All together now: 'Play that funky music white boy!'

◀ Anyone for tennis? Just about every sport you could think off had some kind of representative arcade machine!

▲ This game involves taking pictures of strange-looking animals, until they squirt water at you! It's not a patch on Pokémon Snap though!

▲ And here we have... a novelty vomiting man! If you're into this you can just hang around near any Bournemouth pub on a Saturday night!

▲ Climbing this ladder looks incredibly easy but it's designed so that anyone bigger than a child finds it almost impossible!

▲ This is the 'Parabounce', it's kind of like a bungee only you're strapped to a balloon and you go up instead of down – very weird!

AEROSMITH: QUEST FOR FAME

Once in a century a game comes along that quite literally takes the world by storm. Whether or not Quest For Fame will be that game is doubtful but it had Roy absolutely hooked from the moment he played it. The gameplay is simplicity itself – use the guitar and/or drum controllers to play along with musicians on screen. Start in a bedroom, work through a garage to a bar, then to a music school and finally if you're good enough, you get to play live on stage with Aerosmith! After discovering that drummer Russell just couldn't make the grade Roy quit the band and went solo on the guitar, refusing to leave until he'd played with Aerosmith and won, much to the chagrin of several German buyers who were itching to get a go! We're 'Living On The Edge' baby!

▲ World Kicks is a very odd-looking machine but once you get the hang of it it's great for some novelty footie fun.

WORLD KICKS

This new football game from Namco has gone one step further than previous footie offerings by including a ball attachment which allows you to physically pass or shoot the ball and also perform various tricks like roll backs. Although it can be a little confusing at first you find that you soon get the hang of the basic manoeuvres and then it's footie action all the way! This isn't really a game that you could ever convert for the home console market but it is nevertheless thoroughly entertaining and perfect if you fancy a knock about against a mate at your local arcade.

FUN & GAMES AT THE FAIR

While we were in the 'Big Smoke' we stopped in at the Fair Show which was just next door to ATEI. There we had a go at a few of the vaguely silly activities which can usually be found on village greens and abandoned cow fields when the fair comes to visit. On offer for the day we found water pistol games, camel racing, ladder climbing and even Parabouncing – the all-new way to go up in the world! Needless to say that with all the new arcade games sitting just next door we didn't hang around in here for too long but it was fun all the same!

64 Magazine's Canad

Hey Good Looking!

When you take a good look at some of the cars in this game, the level of detail is just superb! You can almost smell the engine oil and hear the cheering of the crowd...

We take you behind the scenes on Ubi Soft's forthcoming motorsport game, F1 Racing Championship.

Monaco Grand Prix (formerly Racing Simulation Monaco Grand Prix) was the second F-1 game from Ubi Soft and it was a major improvement on their previous effort – the rather dull F1 Pole Position. Now the French-based game-meister is about to re-enter the F-1 Racing scene, with the sequel to Monaco Grand Prix, F1 Racing Championship.

The game has been in development since April last year, with the work split between centres in Casablanca, Morocco and also in Canada. It was to the latter country, home of the Mounties and people who say 'yah' a lot, that 64 MAGAZINE went to get the low-down on what's shaping up to be a top new N64 racing title!

F1 Racing Championship features the real teams, drivers and cars from the 1999 F-1 season and promises to bring N64 owners 'all the thrill and challenge of the real competition'. Improvements over the original Monaco Grand Prix game include:

- An official licence – hence the inclusion of all the genuine drivers and cars.
- An all new 'Driving School' mode (Maureen not included!)
- The addition of a new Arcade Checkpoint mode for those who like their gameplay to be more 'fun' than simulation.
- All-new 3-D pit crew animations.
- Redesigned menus.
- Some hot new sound effects.

Like Monaco, F1 Racing Championship allows either one or two players to race against each other and promises some ultra-realistic car behaviour the like of which has never been seen in an N64 racing game. To get a more personal insight into what's gone into the game we cornered Mathieu Ferland, the Department Manager at Ubi Soft...

ian Adventure!

Look At It This Way...

To try and satisfy as many different playing tastes as possible F1 Racing Championship offers a range of different in-game views. These include three 'behind car' perspectives, a cockpit interior and an 'on the nose' option.

29

64 Tell us about the team working on F1 Racing Championship.

Mathieu Ferland: We have a team of 25 people working in Morocco on F1 Racing Championship and one of our main aims is to create a game for Formula One fans. We started out with the Monaco Grand Prix engine and then started to evolve it into what we have today.

64 What are the major differences between the new game and Monaco Grand Prix?

MF: We have added more 3-D graphical effects. You can see this when you hit opponents on the track. Now the car reacts in a much more realistic way. Instead of simple movement along one axis – up and down – that most car games have, our cars can twist and turn. The game is constantly calculating the effect of 11 physical forces on the car, giving our sim a unique feel.

▲ Two players can race against one another in either a vertically or horizontally split screen. Prepare to eat melted rubber buddy!

▼ Things can get a little bit busy on some of the bends, as cars jostle for position – just like in the real thing!

There is of course the official licence too. Monaco Grand Prix has fake team and driver names but this time the game has all the correct data for the 1999 season. We have used actual driver and team data to improve the AI in the game. When you come up against real-life drivers like Michael Schumacher and Damon Hill, they will actually drive as they would in real life because we've rated them all for skill, aggression and speed!

64 Are there more graphical improvements?

MF: Yes, we've added a new 3-D animation engine that allows us to create a pit-stop mini-game. As you drive into the pits you're presented with the team working around your car. The faster you tap the joypad buttons, the faster your pit-stop will be. Though the track data has come from Monaco Grand Prix, we've improved the look of the game by adding 50 new lighting effects. The tracks have colour washes to give them atmosphere – yellow in Brazil and blue in Canada and the cars have reflective surfaces. The overall look and feel is much more authentic.

64 You've certainly been busy enhancing the original

Monaco game, any other surprises?

MF: We've added lightning and thunder effects to some of the tracks to give a more accurate feeling of racing in those countries, there's also a special heat effect when all the cars are sitting on the starting grid and a whole new track to race around – Malaysia. The sound effects have been improved, because we've sampled actual F-1 cars!

▲ Things don't always go to plan in a Formula One race! This mess will mean precious seconds lost for all concerned.

The Technical Bit...

All the cars in the game are designed on paper first then modelled using 3D Studio Max. They start life as wireframe models and then the 'skins' are added. At the same time, simple solid computer models are used to calculate the light sourcing and shadows. They make it all look so easy!

It's The Pits!

The development team behind F1 Racing Championship are very proud of their pit-stop feature and from what we've seen they've got every reason to be! The fact that you have some control over the pit timing is a great idea and it makes a change from other driving games where you simply just sit back and watch as your car is worked on.

Grab A Gam

Right everyone, listen up! For a long time we've thought that the idea of an N64 magazine giving away N64s to its readers as competition prizes is a little daft because – well let's face it, you probably wouldn't be reading the mag if you didn't already have one, would you? And that's why we haven't given away the perfectly-formed lumps of black plastic as prizes before (well... not very often anyway).

But then the other day, we were chatting with our friends at Kemco and Mad Catz over a few halves of shandy and someone came up with a great idea... you may already have an N64, but you haven't necessarily got the N64's little brother – a Game Boy Color – have you?

That's why 64 MAGAZINE in association with Kemco and Mad Catz is giving you lucky lot the chance win three – count 'em, three – bumper bundles of Game Boy Color goodies! You'll get yourself a Game Boy Color (obviously), a copy of the fantastic Bubble Bobble Classic, a copy of Top Gear Rally 2 (the sequel to Top Gear Rally believe it or not), a copy of Bugs Bunny Crazy Castle 4, a Mad Catz Game Boy pack and a Mad Catz Game Boy link cable!

So basically you're getting everything that you could possibly need to start you on the road to pure Game Boy Color heaven!

To be in with a chance to win one of these fabulous bundles all you've got to do is answer the following three questions correctly and then complete our tie-breaker. The three most original tie-breaker answers drawn after the closing date will win themselves everything listed below!

The Questions!

1: What's the name of Bub's brother in Bubble Bobble? (The clue is in the title!)

- A: Bob
B: Brian
C: William

2: Bugs Bunny is famous for his love of one specific vegetable. Which one?

- A: Potato
B: Radish
C: Carrot

3: Top Gear Rally is based on which exciting sport? (Okay... we don't want to make things too difficult!)

- A: Show-Jumping
B: Rallying
C: Swimming

What You Get!

The ultimate hand-held: A Game Boy Color (rrp £60)
Arcade standard Bubble Bobble Classic (rrp £24.99)
GBC Racer Top Gear Rally 2 (rrp £24.99)
Cartoon capers with Bugs Bunny Crazy Castle 4 (rrp £24.99)
The essential Mad Catz Game Boy pack (rrp £19.99)
The Mad Catz Game Boy link cable (rrp £9.99)

e Boy Color!

Bugs Bunny Crazy Castle 4

Bugs is back for yet more crazy cartoon capers in the fourth game of this popular series! When a game has spawned as many sequels as this it's either because it's got great gameplay and people just can't enough of it – or because it's a well known franchise and someone's trying to milk it for everything they can get. Fortunately, with Crazy Castle 4 the former is the case. Thus what you get is a superb platform game with great graphics and addictive gameplay. It'll keep you battling through with Bugs and his crazy cartoon pals for quite some time to come!

Bubble Bobble Classic

Way back in the mists of time when Spectrums and Commodores roamed the Earth and did battle with mythical Dragon 32s, there was an arcade game called Bubble Bobble. Now Game Boy Color owners can experience a little piece of videogame history for themselves with Bubble Bobble Classic! Take on the role of a small bubble-blowing dragon called Bub, as he sets out to save the life of his brother by wading through level after level of manic beasties to find the 'Moon Water'! This version has all the fun of the first game from the super-cute graphics to the hectic gameplay and it even has the original mega-catchy theme tune playing throughout – a must for all Game Boy Color owners!

Top Gear Rally 2

When we saw that the first Top Gear Rally game was coming out on the Game Boy it has to be said that we snorted derisively. After all, race games on the Game Boy Color? What next? A game that's not a flight sim, an epic strategy game or a first-person shooter on the PC? Anyway, Top Gear Rally proved that racing games can work on Nintendo's top hand-held and Top Gear Rally 2 promises more of the same – only better! Obviously we're not talking Ridge Racer here, but the programmers have made clever use of the Game Boy Color's (admittedly) limited graphical talents. This is a racer which harks back to the 'good old days' of gaming, when graphics were functional and the gameplay had to be faultless. Top Gear Rally 2 features 17 different cars, random weather conditions over 32 stages, has a built-in rumble pak and you can even play against a friend via the Game Boy link cable. Gentlemen, start your engines!

Mad Catz Game Boy Pack

If you've got a Game Boy Color then you'll want one of these – which of course you won't need to worry about if you win our competition, because we're including one with the package! The Mad Catz Game Boy pack contains a multi-link cable, a handy light magnifier and some rather nifty stereo headphones. All this is bundled in a special carry pack with dividers for storing your games and extra compartments to carry all your Game Boy Color accessories – there's even room for Game Boy printer stuff!

Top Ten Game Boy Color Games!

Since we're giving you lot the chance to win yourself a Game Boy Color this issue thanks to those generous chaps at Mad Catz and Kemco, we thought you might need some help on what games to buy to go with your colourful hand-held console. So here for your delectation is 64 MAGAZINE's list of the top-ten recommended Game Boy Color games based on how they scored in our sister magazine TOTAL GAME BOY COLOR! And in no particular order they are...

SUPER MARIO BROTHERS DELUXE

Super Mario Bros Deluxe is a souped-up version of the original Super Mario Bros from the NES. One or two players using two Game Boy Colors and a Game Link cable get to take control of Mario and Luigi for some serious platform fun.

All 32 levels from the original game are included in this version plus eight new ones designed specifically for the Game Boy Color. Every level can be played in original 1985 classic mode plus Nintendo have added a special challenge setting, where the object is to collect five red coins and uncover the hidden Yoshi egg from every level. To hinder our flat-capped heroes there are all sorts of hidden obstacles and opponents like Boo and Bowser to confront. Help for our heroes comes in the form of mushrooms, fire flowers and invincibility stars.

The gameplay in Super Mario Bros Deluxe simply can't be faulted and graphically the GBC version is almost identical to the original NES incarnation. Quite simply, Super Mario Bros Deluxe is a top game and one that no Game Boy Color owner should miss out on. Get out and buy yourself a little piece of videogame history!

CONKER'S POCKET TALES

Yes, it's a Rare game on the Game Boy Color! All right, calm down. Conker's Pocket Tales is the GBC companion to Conker's Bad Fur Day, which is ironic since we're still waiting for that N64 title! Instead of fobbing us off with just another platform game (let's face it, there are enough on the Game Boy Color already) Rare have taken the characters from the N64 game and put them into a role-playing scenario. The result is something that plays a lot like Legend of Zelda: Link's Awakening.

This idea has been taken further though: Conker's has a wide range of inventive sub-games to keep you interested and every corner is packed with secrets to discover. The basic idea of the game is to rescue Conker's girlfriend Berrie from the clutches of Evil the Acorn whilst finding our squirrel hero's stolen birthday presents along the way. Conker must work through all kinds of scenarios before he can be reunited with his girlfriend and there's so much to do that this game should keep you occupied for many happy hours to come!

MARIO GOLF

▲ This hole is a par five, which means that there's probably not much chance of you achieving a 'hole in one'.

It's more than nine years since Mario last graced the (monochromatic) greens of the original Game Boy classic, Golf and in the interim the game has never been bettered. So we were more than a little excited at the prospect this GBC title. Particularly when we heard that Camelot – developers of the rather ace Mario Golf on the N64 – had been given the task of cramping the N64 version into one tiny 16 Megabit cartridge! Astonishingly Camelot has achieved the impossible and brought Mario and his chums to the miniature fairway with real class and all the fun and excitement of its bigger brother.

▲ When each shot is played a little picture pops up to show you how the ball lies, so you can judge which club you'll need.

All the elements of the N64 title are here, from the adventure mode to a easy-to-learn but tricky to master control interface with the result that Mario Golf is a sports sim like no other. It doesn't matter whether or not you like golf. If you enjoy great videogames, you'll love this.

▲ Fluff your approach shot and you're left having to waste a vital shot chipping the ball onto the putting green.

DUKE NUKEM

If you've got an N64 then by now you've heard of 'The Duke'. Duke Nukem on the Game Boy Color takes the form of a 2-D platform adventure and the plot behind the game is one which will be familiar to most regular gamers. Aliens have decided to invade the Earth (as usual) and this time they made the rather foolish mistake of messing with Duke Nukem while they were about it!

Duke starts off with a gun and not much else and he needs to explore the various levels, finding keys, passcards and weapons and offing aliens along the way. Aside from that it's pretty much business as usual as Duke jumps and blasts his way through the alien hordes.

Graphically Duke Nukem looks good on the Game Boy Color and a lot of the humour of the previous Duke games has been kept. There are a lot of platform games available on Nintendo's hand-held however the crisp graphics, responsive controls and addictive gameplay make this one a title that every ▲ Duke comes up against a rather nasty-looking gun on this level. Fortunately the bad guy's aim isn't too good!

GBC platform fan should own. Try it out or we'll send the Duke round!

▲ The Game Boy Color version of Duke Nukem may be in 2-D but it still retains the great humour of the other games.

REVELATIONS: THE DEMON SLAYER

Ever fancied yourself as a bit of an adventurer? If the answer's 'yes' then you're gonna love Revelations: The Demon Slayer which is an incredibly polished Game Boy Color RPG.

Apparently on the fifth planet in a galaxy far, far away (wait a minute! That sounds familiar!), there lives a race of good human-like beings with strange, mystical powers who are being hassled by the forces of evil. That's where you come in.

It's up to you to restore peace to the land by fielding an adventure party and defeating the evil monster hordes. Each time you fight you earn experience points, the more you earn the harder your character becomes, both physically and magically.

You need to explore your environment, talking to the people you meet and completing a number of set objectives, so there is always stacks to do.

With over 100 different weapons and magical spells and more than 100 monsters for you to take on in combat this game is a must for GBC RPG fans!

▲ Helpful advice from one of the local shopkeepers. What a caring chap! Or is he just out for a quick buck?

▲ They need a hero! He's got to be strong and he's got to be fast and he's got to be fresh from the fight! Er... sorry.

SPACE STATION: SILICON VALLEY

Space Station: Silicon Valley came out for the N64 not that long ago and now it's reached the Game Boy Color! The story is the same as in the original with Evo the microchip searching for parts to his robot body whilst trying to fix his master's space craft. Evo can take control of any of the many animal robots on the station – once they're dead that is – and thus you get to control such strange beasts as Roger the Sheepdog, Flossy the Sheep, polar bears, elephants and all sorts of other feathered and furry folk!

It's great fun to be able to leap around each level changing species at will as every animal you become has different skills and control functions and it is crucial to master these in order to complete every task. Much care and attention has obviously been taken over the graphics, making this a charming and engrossing buy. Dive into the Technicolor world of Space Station: Silicon Valley!

▲ Something that is not widely known is that robot sheep float much better than any other animal robots... clever!

TARZAN

The latest Disney cinema blockbuster to reach the Game Boy Color is Tarzan, the classic tale of a young lad who loses his parents in a shipwreck and is raised by apes in the jungle. Activision and Disney Interactive have got together to bring us this piece of platform perfection with added bananas. They've taken the characters from the movie and created a platform adventure game packed with secrets and extras that will keep you busy for ages!

The cartridge is split into three sections.

There's the main platform game, with four playable characters, loads of levels and cool graphics. Then there's the special Hide & Seek game, where you and a friend can take it in turns to hide (or seek). Lastly, for those lucky enough to have a GBC printer, there's a special paint and print section too! Disney Interactive have a rep for creating great portable

IK 2000

Beat-'em-ups weren't always the flashy 3-D affairs that currently have console owners wetting themselves on a daily basis you know! Enter IK+, the greatest fighter ever produced on the old 8-bit Commodore 64 and ZX Spectrum computers. It was also the first ever 'made in England' title to go straight to number one in both the UK and the US!

Instead of pummelling opponents till they drop you can beat your enemy with one swift smack in the mouth. As in real karate you're awarded a whole or half point depending on the quality of your strike. The first fighter to get two points wins a bout.

IK2000 – the Game Boy Color incarnation of IK+ – shuns the fist-flailing combos and over-the-top special attacks found in more recent beat-'em-ups and despite its simplicity it has an absolutely remarkable depth to its gameplay. The speed with which bouts can swing either way creates incredibly tense matches. IK 2000 is quite simply fantastic!

If it is possible for a game that is less than a decade old to be called a classic, then the legendary Sega Saturn and PlayStation romp Rayman is one. Revolutionary graphics and superb gameplay kept oodles of gamers happy all those years ago but, unlike the late-lamented Saturn,

Rayman himself is still going strong today in games like Rayman 2: The Great Escape. And now for the first time ever the original psychedelic adventure is available on the Game Boy Color.

And what an adventure it still proves to be! The graphics and gameplay are just as vibrantly compelling as ever and this game is so faithful to the original versions that you find it hard to believe you're playing a hand-

It seems our Disney chums are about to take part in the annual carnival when nasty Pete comes along and steals all the floats! The only way you can get on with the show is to race him and his cronies to become the ultimate rodent racing champion!

Mickey's Racing Adventure involves not only a compelling RPG-type adventure and 21 amazing high-speed racing tracks, but also a different brain-draining puzzle for each contender. This variety of gameplay means that this title has twice as much to offer as any other GBC game and the fun doesn't stop there! Numerous bonuses including an email function, various hidden race modes and a Game Boy Printer facility make Mickey's Racing Adventure quite simply the best Game Boy Color game so far!

▲ At the end of the day what Mickey's Racing Adventure is all about is ultimately winning races!

EVERY GAME GETS A SCORE OUT OF 100 – BUT WHAT DOES IT ACTUALLY MEAN? IGNORE ANYTHING OTHER MAGS MAY SAY – 64 Magazine IS THE MOST BRUTALLY TRUTHFUL N64 MAG AROUND, AND IF WE GIVE A GAME A GOOD (OR BAD) MARK, YOU CAN TAKE THAT AS THE GOSPEL TRUTH. THESE ARE WHAT THE SCORES MEAN IN ENGLISH...

This score wins a game the coveted Gold Medal Award. Unlike some rags, which hand out top gongs like Smarties, we're very tight-fisted with this award – out of over a hundred N64 games reviewed, only four have got the gold. It's your guarantee of a top game!

Welcome to Sizzler country! Scooping one of these awards means a game has had our brand of quality seared into its tender flesh. Unless you have a beef against the particular kind of game, anything that scores in this range can be bought without fear of crapness.

The good-but-not-awesome zone. A game in this range will still be worth getting if you like the sound of it, but it will either have some minor but annoying flaws or be missing the hard-to-define 'hook' that makes a truly great game.

Starting to drop into the realm of games that should only be bought if you're really, really into the subject. They might have flaws that spoil the gameplay, or be well done but not especially interesting. Be careful before you spend your money.

Warning, Will Robinson, warning! If a game can only manage a below-average score, then there's obviously something badly wrong with it and you should give it a wide berth. Don't say we didn't warn you.

You are now entering the World Of Crap. If a game ends up here, it's got so many things wrong with it that the Russians may be planning to use it as a space station. Do not, under any circumstances, buy anything that scores this low!

Can there really be anything this pathetic on the N64? Oh yes, there can. Oh yes.

EXPANSION PAK

RUMBLE PAK

Publisher: Kemco
Developer: Ion Storm
Game Type: First person shoot-'em-up
Origin: Japan
Release: 21 April
Price: £39.99

The time is the future. The place? Japan. Our story begins in a small house where a solitary warrior is practising his – for want of a better word – callisthenics. His fitness routine is interrupted by someone at his door, a mysterious old man who tells him that the world he knows, the world that the warrior has grown up in, has not always been this way. Apparently an evil man called Mishima has taken possession of an ultra-powerful sword called the Daikatana and used it to go back through time and change history. And guess what? It's up to you to put things to rights!

Thus begins a game which is best described as a cross between Quake II hero, Hiro. And yes, that does make him 'Hiro the Hero' which is a little unfortunate, but then names don't really seem to be this game's strong point – one of the characters is called 'Superfly' for crying out loud!

Daikatana comprises 16 different levels which are grouped into four 'episodes'. As you probably already guessed from the time-travel plotline, each episode takes place in a different time-zone as your character gets thrown backwards and forwards in history in search of the fabled Daikatana. If you thought that the Back To The Future movies had a few time-paradoxes then get ready for a lot more, because the plot of Daikatana twists around all over the place! For instance you actually find the sword that you're seeking by the end of the first episode (level four) only to be confronted by the evil boss Mishima who also has a Daikatana – and it's the same sword! Confused? You will be!

Gameplay in Daikatana is first-person (as in Quake II and Turok), viewed through the eyes of the warrior Hiro. As you progress through the game you come across two other characters, Mikiko – trained since birth to wield the Daikatana – and the aforementioned Superfly, a huge bald guy who... well, who's big and has no hair! These two characters join you on your quest for the Daikatana but you don't actually get any direct control over them. Sometimes they wander around with you – although presumably they're strapped to your back or something because no matter how much you turn around you never see them – while at other times they wander off on their own to explore. When they do this you usually find them hanging around by some puzzle or other to offer help and advice – or not – as they see fit.

The plot of Daikatana twists around all over the place!

and recent RPG-esque affair Hybrid Heaven. You take on the role of the Enter a world of advanced technology, incredible magic and a bloke called Superfly!

I've Got The Key...

Some of the puzzles are of the more mundane type. This one for instance just involves finding the right key for the door. Once you've got it all you need to do is stick it in the right hole!

▲ This archer is obviously trying to confuse us with his acrobatics – but we're still gonna blast him when he stops hopping about!

Swords 'N' Sorcery

As previously mentioned, this game is pretty much a cross between Quake II and Hybrid Heaven. All the combat is first-person and there are a massive 22 different weapons to use on the various guards, mutants and various mythical creatures that you encounter on your travels. Unlike the Quake games though, being quickest on the trigger in Daikatana isn't necessarily the route to success. This is because in addition to the armed and aggressive characters that you meet in the levels of the game you also come across many unarmed individuals who are basically NPCs – non player characters – like those you would find in an RPG.

Not every NPC that you meet is going to be friendly though and at times it does become necessary to 'terminate' certain individuals to obtain their full co-operation – or rather to rob them of whatever important object it is that they are holding. This means that usually it has to be a case of experimentation – talk to the people first and then if they don't co-operate introduce them to the business end of your favourite weapon. Obviously you can choose to do this the other way around, but it's rather difficult to make someone 'spill the beans' when they are sprawled in a gooey heap on the ground! In Daikatana trial and error is most definitely the order of the day!

medieval villages, Greek-style temples and palaces and even the famous Alcatraz prison, there's plenty of variety. None of the levels looks too samey which makes the game much more pleasant to play. Unfortunately the character animations aren't quite as impressive. That's not to say that they're bad by any means. And it should be made clear that there are tons of different characters in this game too. The problem is that this title has obviously been in development for some time and the graphics for the characters now look a little dated. Up close a lot of the enemies for example look a little rough and the explosion animations are fairly basic and a little repetitive.

All that said though, the overall look of the game is a fairly impressive one. The weapons themselves all have extremely good animation and work in a variety of different ways rather than just being variations of different machine guns. Plus if you do play this game in high-res then you'll be hard-pushed to fault the visuals for crispness and clarity.

In addition to the various NPCs that you meet in Daikatana there are also a number of different puzzles to be completed on each level. While these are get yourself a copy of Daikatana.

▼ This hovering 'bot has four guns and follows you around, so it's a good idea to waste it fairly quickly before it bothers you.

Many of these people are unimportant and are just there to give the game some atmosphere, but several are extremely vital to your mission so you need to talk to all of them. Every NPC is different and must be interacted with in a specific way if you want to progress. There are people who give you essential objects and keys if you talk to them nicely; then there are other characters who perform important tasks like working the control consoles of lifts. If you go a little nuts and start mowing down everything that moves then you often find you come to a lift or door that simply won't open because you just 'offed' the poor guy whose job it was to make the thing work!

Lookin' Good!

Graphically Daikatana is kind of a two level affair. Basically you can divide the graphics into two categories: character graphics and background graphics. The background graphics are – it's pretty fair to say – very nice indeed! Daikatana makes great use of the expansion pak to produce some gorgeous high-res landscapes and scenery but even without the expansion the backgrounds still look excellent. There is an impressive mixture of scenery and locations over the four main stages. The first episode is a mainly techno world, with lots of metallic greys, advanced computer monitors and flashing neon signs. Other levels include snowy

Disgruntled Employees

Evil Mishima may be able to travel through time and change history as he sees fit, but he's got an awful lot to learn about employee relations! You meet all sorts of workers on the early levels of Daikatana and they all seem rather fed up at first! As you go further though they seem to cheer up a bit so presumably the deeper you progress into Mishima's organisation the more money you get paid!

Wot No Key?

This puzzle is fairly simple and yet ever so easy to cock up if you're too quick on the trigger!

You come to a door but the panel that opens it won't allow you access. What do you do now?

Wander back the way you came and you meet this chap whose job is to open doors!

Resist the urge to kill him, follow him down the corridor... and he opens the door for you!

▲ You don't actually get to use the rather groovy Daikatana until right at the end of the game. The guy you're up against here is Mishima, but even after you beat him things ain't over!

▲ Because Mishima has been back in time and meddled with history he now owns a huge global corporation – the rich git!

▼ This hovering robot said nasty things to us... so we killed it! Robots are fairly common on the first few levels but pretty easy to destroy.

never incredibly complex, a lot of them are nevertheless a little more involved than just finding a key or pressing a switch. Lots of the tasks involve manipulating various areas of your environment – pushing things, shooting things and so on. You won't need a fantastically high IQ to complete them, but it does add important variety to the gameplay.

The controls in Daikatana are one of the most impressive set-ups to be seen in a first-person shoot-'em-up so far. Your character is fairly versatile and it's difficult to say why, but for some reason it's a lot easier to move and aim in this game than in others like Turok 2. The controls are very similar to Acclaim's recent hit but the handling just feels a lot smoother and far more responsive.

RPG-Esque

Now it's already been mentioned that Daikatana shares elements of gameplay

but there's a reason for this. Down the left side of the screen there is a list of stats: vitality, attack, speed, agro and power. Each of these has five levels as indicated by the five green blocks underneath them. Although Daikatana isn't an RPG, just like in that style of game as you successfully complete sections your statistics increase and you become a more effective character. They're all interlinked so that while speed is fairly self-explanatory, attack, agro and power all affect your character's offensive capabilities as well as influencing other factors too – like the damage that he takes from enemy shots.

As you progress through the game you get messages that let you know when one of your stats has increased. It's safe to say that the text hasn't been directly translated though. It's difficult to imagine the Japanese with their reputation for politeness sticking in a message like: "Your attack skill has increased, now go and kick butt!"

Multiplayer Mayhem

The stats play an important part in the multiplayer version of Daikatana too. Up to four players can compete in two different games, one a standard deathmatch affair and the other a kind of treasure hunt. Whenever you make a kill in deathmatch mode – as in the one-player game – one of your attributes increases. This has the rather interesting effect of making the person with the most kills faster and stronger than the people he terminates. This could be viewed as a little daft because it means the most talented player basically ends up with an all-conquering super-powerful character!

The second multiplayer game is a little different than ones we've seen in this kind of game in the past. The object of the game is to collect five different coloured jewels. Now you'd think that this would mean you'd all just be running around the level as fast as possible and whoever found five gems

▲ The Disc Of Daedalus – as you can pretty much guess from the name – flies when you throw it. It comes back to you unless it hits an enemy soldier.

The Cast...

Although Hiro is the main character in Daikatana there are two other warriors who join him on his quest. You meet them early in the game and they lend a hand from time to time if you need it. Each person has their own reasons for helping you... but can you trust them?

Hiro is the guy who initially sets out to find the sword. He's big, he's bad and he can carry an awful lot of weapons.

The daughter of the old man who sends Hiro on his quest, Mikiko can apparently wield the sword like no other!

Probably the most mis-named character ever in a videogame, Mishima tortured him and now Superfly wants revenge!

▲ This skeletal figure obviously hasn't been getting enough to eat! He is however still pretty fit and very dangerous.

scramble to find the jewels at the beginning of a game, once all the gems have been collected it becomes a case of hunting the players with the stones and trying to defend yourself at the same time. This can mean that loyalties change as players combine forces to gang up on any player who manages to gather a number of the jewels. The closest thing to this style of gameplay is an old 8-bit title called Spy Vs Spy. In that game two players had to gather a number of different objects from various rooms in order to win and had to steal some of those objects from each other. The result in Daikatana is a game which can last for absolutely ages!

Ain't It Cool?

This game has an awful lot going for it. The variety in the levels, the range of weapons and the fact that it isn't just a straight 'kill everything' shoot-'em-up gives it the edge over other similar titles. Throughout the game various cut-scenes further the plot and while at times these scenes can be a little long-winded they do nevertheless give the whole thing a sense of purpose – ie: you're not killing things and wandering through the different levels just for the sake of it.

Daikatana might not be everyone's cup of tea – Quake fans might not like all the cut-scenes and the fact that you have to use your brain, while serious RPG fans will probably find that the puzzle-solving and character-interaction elements don't go quite as far as they might like. However what Daikatana does offer is a different type of game and one that we haven't really seen before on the N64. It's great fun to play in one-player with a lot of depth to the gameplay and the multiplayer is good enough to keep you going even after you've completed the single-player mode – which incidentally isn't very easy to do! If you like your action first-person then go out and get yourself a copy of Daikatana. If you've stayed clear of games like this up till now because you've always felt that they were a bit mindless, then now's your chance to get your hands on a seriously enjoyable shoot-'em-up which requires more than just a little bit of thought to play. What are you waiting for? Get down to your local software store now! ■

Unless you've had your head buried in the sand for the past few years you'll know that the Ridge Racer series is a big thing on the PlayStation. Well now like Resident Evil, Fighting Force and Destruction Derby the N64 has its very own Namco arcade conversion done to make Nintendo a fast buck. Being a devil-may-care race-driver constantly pushing your car to its limits is what this game is all about... and what fun it is too!

From the moment you put the pedal to the metal at the start of the first race you know that you're in for the ride of your life. In fact if this game were a car it would be a Lamborghini!

There are no slow races to ease you in on Ridge Racer 64, it's break neck action from the word go. What's even cooler is that as you progress through the game and unlock more cars and tracks the game just gets faster! Needless to say memorising every corner of each track is essential for getting anywhere near to pole position in this game.

B-Ridge

If you've played any of the previous PlayStation incarnations of Ridge Racer

before, then you'll already be familiar with the tracks. The courses from Ridge Racer and Ridge Racer Revolution have been recreated corner for corner in this version. It's not only the tracks that have been reproduced though, because you even get the trees, buildings and landscape thrown in for good measure. All these levels have been lavished with improved up-to-date graphics to keep up with the sheer quality of the four all-new N64-only courses.

Quality is certainly one thing that this game is not short of. Each and every one of the nine huge tracks looks stunningly crisp on screen and if you have got time to take your eyes off the road there are loads of little details to appreciate. We're not just talking the obligatory airships here either, because the lighting effects really do have to be seen to be believed! The lighting on the dusk levels in particular looks great but it's the blurred tail lights on the cars themselves which really gives this game

On most of the Ridge Racer tracks a huge plane complete with slip streams flies over the track – is there an airport near here?

Before you start each race you get to choose exactly which cheesy dance music track you want to listen to. Sadly none is not an option.

There's no spot advertising from Coca-Cola or anyone else like that in this game – all the billboards show the Ridge Racer babe.

As you try to pass one of the cars a few sparks fly off the side to let you know that you're cutting things a little too close.

an edge. As if you really needed a greater feeling of speed in the game! The headlights on the night levels also look superb, but annoyingly you don't get a pool of light in front of the car – something which could've helped on the darker stages. Instead you only get to see the headlights on the cinematic replays, after the race is over!

F-Ridge

Other little details that stand out in Ridge Racer 64 include the burning tyres on the road. Perform a simple power slide and your wheels start smoking more than Cancer Man in the X-Files. Not only do you leave long black tyre marks on the road, but the streaks from your vehicle and other cars remain on the road surface. This serves to warn you where things went a bit pear-shaped on the previous laps. Unfortunately kicking the car out into a powerslide is a little too easy in this game, a problem that's not unique to the N64 version. Those who have played Ridge Racer before will know exactly what to expect.

Be warned: the worst thing you can do in this game is to take your finger off the accelerator – this is after all an arcade racer not a realistic driving simulation! If you step off the juice for even a second whilst turning you automatically begin to career into an over-the-top arcade powerslide. This makes the cars a nightmare to control around difficult corners, because mastering the powerslide is far from easy. It can feel as if someone has poured oil onto the corners! This may all add to the arcade experience, but it does mean that you'll need to practice before you can maintain a controlled drift.

Ridge-D

The playability has been improved for this N64 incarnation of the Ridge Racer series and to keep the fans happy Nintendo have included three different control styles in the game. The handling options from the original Ridge Racer and Revolution games have been included along with an all-new control style. So basically you've got three games in one! Once you get used to the controls then caning it along the tarmac shouldn't be a problem.

The only thing that's likely to get in your way are the other racers, something which they do have an annoying habit of doing. This problem is especially noticeable on the thinner areas of track where overtaking is practically impossible and hitting other cars only results in you losing speed! This may be an arcade racer but precision driving is still necessary – perhaps even more so than in other race games – because hitting the sides results in serious speed loss. This wouldn't be so bad if it weren't for the fact that invisible walls mark the kerbs so riding on the grass verges is never a viable option.

Uno-Ridge-Inal

It's when you do crash into the sides that this game hits its first big hurdle, you're in for the ride of your life!

▶ The last thing you want when you're battling it out head-to-head for first place at high speeds is a chopper flying in to have a look!

▶ It's like driving home on the motorway after a long day at work – just push the pedal to the floor and barge through the middle!

▶ You are now entering Ridgetown. On the left you can see a few deserted buildings and on the right, er... more deserted buildings!

▶ If the car starts to slide out this drastically it's either as a result of clever driving skills or something going horribly wrong!

Contenders Ready?

Apart from F-Zero X racing games have struggled to keep the speed up in four-player, right? Well, Ridge Racer 64 puts an end to that! The four-player mode is excruciatingly fast and just as much fun as the single-player game.

Let's Go Round Again

If you are the kind of person who usually skips replays, don't! Hold on and check out some of the superb Gran Turismo-style affairs.

Has anyone got a parachute? It might be time to hit the eject button!

The replays come complete with sweeping cameras to give them a glossy look.

The best racing game on the N64 to date!

the sound effects. Picture the scene: you're cruising along a road quite happily listening to the pleasing hum of your engine. Suddenly you lose control and slide out into the barrier. If you've got a tin can around the house then hit it with a spoon, because that's the sound effect you get! What's that you say? You can cope with that? Well you have to listen to it every single time you hit a surface, whether it's rock, sand or metal! If you were annoyed at crashing, you're gonna be even more annoyed after hearing this dull clanking sound!

This being a racing game you also get some suitably cheesy upbeat dance music to help drone out the poor quality sound effects. The music isn't exactly awe-inspiring but it does serve Ridge Racer adequately, giving you an extra sensation of speed. Lastly, you get the compulsory arcade commentary, which can get a tad repetitive and annoying. Overall though it helps to create the right effect and it can be helpful at times, telling you when you're on the finishing straight and more importantly if you're closing on the leader. Annoyingly, this is the only confirmation you get that you're have been nice to know how far away the race leader was at all times as that would have allowed you to better plan your racing strategy.

Por-Ridge

The most disappointing thing about Ridge Racer 64 is the frame rate, which is dodgy to say the least. The weirdest thing is that this drop in frame rate only occurs when playing the game in the behind car view and not in the nose-cam position. Considering that the bonnet view runs much faster and features a wing mirror while remaining super smooth, the sluggishness of the behind car view is surprising. It's not that the drop in frame rate with your car on screen makes the game unplayable, but it's a shame, letting the tyres down on an otherwise perfect sports car title.

If you can sacrifice not being able to look at your own car then there's no reason why you won't love this game. It even saves to cart so you don't have to buy a new controller pack. Ladies and gentlemen the race has finished and we have a winner! This is the best racing game on the N64 to date and a fine example of the N64's power. All we need now is a good fighting game! ■

Go Faster Stripes

Before you start each race you can change the colours on your car to practically anything you want, including some garish luminous colours!

▲ If you're not too sure how you're looking, take a glance up at one of the screens showing the race, hmmm... not my best side!

▲ Thankfully these paper-thin barriers are made out of rock-hard steel, otherwise you'd now be swimming with the fishes.

Chaaarrge!

Every three tracks or so you are given the chance to win a car to add to your garage collection in Car Attack mode. This involves a gruelling one-on-one head-to-head race with the car that you'd like to win. Not easy considering that the newer cars are usually the quicker ones!

$64,000 Question

- ⊕ Bright colourful levels
- ⊕ Fun boats
- ⊕ Fast arcade gameplay
- ⊕ Completely fog free
- ⊖ Water can look dodgy at times
- ⊖ No boat statistics
- ⊖ Terrible multiplayer

Super-fast high-powered speedboat racing comes to the N64 and while this may not be life on the open seas, it sure is fun. In fact there are no 'open seas' in this racing game – all of the tracks are either set inside confined arenas or around water-covered cities. Perhaps not the most intelligent of places to take a huge petrol guzzling wave rider but these aren't your everyday run-of-the-mill paddleboats! Let's just say you're not going to find one of these monsters on Baywatch as all of the boats, complete with transforming parts, are placed firmly on fictional waters.

The reason for this mad over-the-top racing with silly boats? Well Hydro Thunder is a port of a popular arcade game of the same name. Suffice to say yourself racing along water with gorgeous reflections of the surrounding scenery. Better still you have a clear view of your boat's behind as it jumps through the waves. A few minutes later though and you're tearing across what can only be described as mud with your boat disappearing as it goes under the waves. At times like this it feels as if you're playing Rapid Racer on the PlayStation – the water can be that opaque. Despite this the colourful scenery and the fast gameplay provides more than enough of a distraction from the dank watery effects. This may be a conversion of an arcade game, but the emphasis still remains very much on perfect racing. With perseverance you will crack the 13 levels in just a few weeks. However, to do this you need to make sure that you're taking the fastest route each time and collecting every single power-up.

Robots In Disguise...

Collect a boost power-up and your craft transforms itself with go faster stripes. Best of all is this Batman-style craft which sprouts wings and a huge booster!

that if you're looking for Wave Race-style realism then turn your back now because this game is all about turbo power-ups, sci-fi style boats and mad jumps leading into impossibly long drops. Having said that the water isn't half bad – the problem is that it isn't terribly good either!

Evian

When racing around any of the tracks you notice that the water is about as consistent as a cheap one-armed bandit. On one section of the track you find

The challenge lies in not only remembering the corners, but also knowing where each of the power boosts are located. mystery not even Columbo could unravel! Of all the boats on offer you find yourself going for the same two or three again and again. It's not that any one is better than the others because they all control differently but instead it comes down to a simple choice of personal preference. Each one of the 13 handles once this is a game not dominated by the fastest craft. A boat with good handling stands just as much chance as any of the faster boats and even the bizarre bonus boats you are awarded later on don't dominate the runnings.

Vitesse

The speed factor doesn't make much difference in the single-player game but it does mean that the multiplayer games are going to be close every time. Unfortunately it's only worth bothering with the two-player mode because the four-player runs at truly unplayable speeds. To make matters worse in four-player mode the camera remains in a fixed position on the nose of the selected boat. This view that makes the one-player game seem faster still doesn't make up for the slow speed and at times you find yourself wanting to get out and push! If you do get out though, make sure you look around because this game has got some stunning 'fog free' scenery.

The graphics aren't exactly the best you're ever going to find but the scenery is far from dull. While playing this game you race through flooded New York streets, past Dracula-style castles

Perrier

One of the best things about Hydro Thunder is that there are loads of other boats on the water which aren't racing against you. These include police boats, with cops that shout at you to pull over, as well as yachts, rowing boats, gondolas and the odd jetski – a dig at Wave Race perhaps? The attention to detail doesn't end there either! You also get a radar which shows each and every corner. This may not sound like much but watch it as you enter a tunnel or a cave and the radar goes all fuzzy as it loses its signal!

As you might expect from a game like this the sound effects and music have average written all over them. Yet again though Eurocom have added that little bit extra, even including some Star Wars quotes! That said, even the computer screaming 'stay on target' can get a little repetitive. Hydro Thunder is a highly enjoyable game that unfortunately gets let down rather heavily by the appalling four-player mode which races like it's on treacle. This is a real shame considering that the one-player game can be finished fairly quickly as it reduces the overall longevity. However it's still a great game and if you're after an insane wet 'n' wild high-powered racer then take the plunge and try this one out. ■

The Evil Eye

One of the bonus levels is set in ancient Egypt. It features this mammoth monster that you have to drive over. Aim for its eye and it will rise up out of the water allowing you to jump to a free boost.

Competition

Do you fancy riding the waves in a high-powered boat? Well now you can because Midway are offering you the chance to win your very own copy of Hydro Thunder. To win one of five copies just finish this simple sentence. The funniest entries will win!

"If I had a speedboat I would..."

What better full-time job is there to have than a professional skateboarder? (Being a full-time videogame player perhaps? – Roy) Not only do you get to spend your whole life doing what you enjoy most but you get paid to do it! Of course there's always a chance that you'll fall down and break your neck when a trick doesn't go the way you planned. So why bother taking that risk when you can become a pro from the comfort of your own home with Tony Hawk! The sceptics amongst you may think 'where's the adrenaline in that?' Well, Tony Hawk's Skateboarding is not only one of the most enjoyable N64 games to date, but it's guaranteed to get your pulse racing!

Impossible

Already immensely popular on the PlayStation and soon to be heading onto the Game Boy, Tony Hawk's is guaranteed to rock the N64 market. You get all the tricks, courses, official pro stars and unbelievably all the music too! Yes, for once an N64 game featuring loads of real-life music tracks complete with lyrics. A total of eight tracks from the likes of Goldfinger, The Dead Kennedy's, Suicidal Tendencies and Primus are included to set the mood for those skating moments. One drawback to the music however is that the tracks have been edited slightly. This means the songs are a lot shorter than normal and play on a loop. This isn't a major setback because let's face it, some music is better than none and as your time on each level is limited monotony never becomes a problem.

Because each stage has a time limit the game flows along at a cracking pace, improving playability. Not that the object of the game is to get to the finish line mind you! No, to win you have to perform in nine open environment courses. Levels range from street courses to skate parks and even an Area 51/Roswell stage! Each of these have their own tasks which need to be completed before access to higher levels can be awarded. Most levels offer five challenges but the game also includes special championship events where you are skating against fellow pros in a tournament. These levels in particular can be more fun than the street courses, if only because of the cheers and boos you get from the crowd as you attack the ramps and rails.

Finger Flip

There are plenty of tricks and turns to wow the crowds with and the fact that they can all be linked together means that there is no end to the variety. Tricks are displayed on screen as you do them. More points are awarded if you try to do different things with the course. On one level it is possible to fly off a ramp and land a grind on a rail hanging from the ceiling! This may be a skating simulation but you can push the players in the game beyond any imaginable human possibilities. Of course the more dangerous the trick the more likely you are to end up sliding across the floor in a twisted heap.

If anything does go wrong it's entirely your own fault because the game handles superbly. Once you're used to the controls they become second nature, which means you can concentrate on perfecting those tricks. If you do mess up you don't get the points and the displayed trick name tumbles off the bottom of the screen like broken teeth. The superb sound

Go Big

With a few taps of the C Buttons and some careful timing you can link an obscene amount of tricks together to give yourself some truly massive scores. With a bit of practice six trick links like this one and better aren't impossible!

The Truth Is Out There

The final stage on Tony Hawk's is a skate competition which takes place at Roswell – an area renowned for its alien history. Hidden rooms off this skate park hold a flying saucer and even a little green man who lies on an operating table.

A superb example of the kind of games the N64 can produce

$64,000 Question

- + Easy to use smooth controls
- + Loads of tricks
- + Superb music
- + Fun two player mode
- + Lots to do
- + Can get repetitive

► It's a long way down so make sure you land right, though you'd think that pro skaters are bound to have good medical insurance!

✓ A drained swimming pool on the School level is the perfect venue for practicing all of your aerial acrobatics.

▲ Hidden character and donut muncher Officer Dick, defies gravity by flying through the air on the Downtown Level.

▲ Watch out for that car! Remember to look both ways before crossing the road, you're not the only person out there you know.

▲ If you want to catch some huge air the vert ramp is the only way to go, get enough speed and you can link loads of tricks together.

▲ Steam blows out of the pipes in the distance, as Tony Hawk opens one of the valves on the Downhill Jam stage.

effects mean that you really do feel the pain of your chosen skater when things go wrong.

Nose Grind

Another feature which makes this game stand out is the range of official skaters that you get to choose from. This isn't a one man show by any means and in addition to Tony Hawk himself you get to play as Bob Burnquist, Chad their own special signature moves. This though doesn't stop the game from getting a little repetitive at times. Sure enough there are plenty of tricks, levels, characters and things to do but after a while it can all get a little too samey. Fortunately there is always the highly enjoyable two-player game to turn to.

There are three games on offer in two-player mode, the first of which is a standard trick attack but the others warrant hours of play all on their own. The second game is called 'Graffiti' and the idea of this split-screen game is to do tricks on ramps and rails to turn them your colour. Areas of the selected park can then be stolen back from your opponent by them performing better tricks. Graffiti battles can be intense to say the least, especially when the clock is ticking down and the scores are level pegging.

Muska, Elissa Steamer and many more. Including the hidden cop skater you get 11 people to choose from all of whom have their own official board designs. To make sure each of them maintains their originality and style they all also have

Stalefish

The final two-player game is, for some unknown reason, called 'Horse'. In this game each player takes it in turns to perform a trick on a particular place in a level, the idea being to show off against your mates. Fail to beat your friend's score and you are awarded a letter of the word 'horse'. Get all the letters and you are branded a Horse or in other words: a total loser! This game can become a really great laugh once you get into it, especially as the word can be changed to anything you want.

All in all Tony Hawk's Skateboarding is a superb example of the kind of games the N64 can produce and a prime example of how much life there is left in Nintendo's excellent console. Even if you're not a skateboarding fan this title won't fail to amaze you so grab yourself a copy of it and get out there and grind those rails! ■

Tony Hawk's is guaranteed to rock the N64 market.

Assume The Position

The final hidden character in the game is a police officer – well what skating game would be complete without one? He may be an overweight bloke with donut designs on his board but he can trick it with the best of them. His special 'assume the position' move has him putting his hands behind his head ready to be cuffed!

Win Your Own Skate Park!

If you fancy giving skateboarding a try but don't want the cuts and bruises then look no further. These finger board kits are perfect for skate dreamers and pros who want to practise when it's raining. We've got three to give away and all you need to do to be in with a chance to win one is answer this simple question:

What is Tony Hawk most famous for?

- A Nice board artwork.
- B His baggy trousers.
- C A 900° spin.

Send all entries to the usual address to reach us by 20 April or if you can't wait for the competition to be drawn call Storm Communications on (01494) 670444 to order your own set.

2nd opinion

Oh. My. God. When this first came out on that 'other' console we don't talk about, it was one of the most played games in the office. Now it's on the beloved N64 and it's better than ever! Don't like skateboarding? It doesn't matter – go and buy this right NOW! MARTIN MATHERS

PAL Performance

How does the UK version compare in terms of speed to the import cart?

No noticeable slowdown or distracting borders.

Never Hit A Girl

The first major boss that you come up against in Winback is Lila who has an itchy trigger finger and a gun pointed right at you. This lady in red also has a rather maniacal laugh that reminds us of Xenia Onatop!

The military being the sloppy, disorganised people that they are they've managed to let a highly destructive satellite fall into terrorist hands – d'oh! Now – you probably won't be surprised to learn – it's up to you to save the day. How come decorum and tact is definitely the order of the day. If you do run into a room expecting to end all life contained therein the odds are you'll end up coming out in a designer black sleeping bag with a zip up the middle! If anything, this game is a mix between no-one ever releases a game where you get to play the power hungry terrorist instead of the heroic do-gooder? Anyway, you take on the role of SCAT agent (excuse me, the organisation is called SCAT?) Jean-Luc Cougar and in a twist that not many other games can boast: you only have two hours to complete your mission! The reason? In two hours time the satellite will be fully charged and ready to launch an attack.

Hide Hide Hide!

This addition of a time limit makes an already exciting game literally buzz with adrenaline. For starters this isn't your usual run-of-the-mill 'storm in and kill everything' game – a little more PlayStation games Metal Gear Solid and Time Crisis! You spend most of your time diving between areas of cover which you then emerge from to take pot shots at the bad guys, a system that works surprisingly well.

Picture the scene: you arrive in a warehouse, spot a couple of guards and immediately dive for cover behind the nearest crate. From here you can pop out from your hiding place in a variety of dramatic stances to take carefully aimed shots at the enemy before swinging back into cover. The auto targeting and some gorgeous animation means that you never get bored of wasting the opposition. Of course at

Tools Of The Trade

You may be on your own when it comes to saving the world but fortunately you have at your disposal an array of death-dealing thundersticks.

One of the best weapons in the game is the room clearing shotgun...

...with a pull of the trigger you can quite happily take down three or more.

Today Jean-Luc is sporting the latest in fashion accessories: a rocket launcher...

...perfect for unwinding after a long day of executing unwanted terrorists.

2nd opinion

I found the camera in Winback to be a little on the annoying side but apart from that, this game is great! The stealth and combat elements are excellent and really do rival those in Metal Gear Solid. Okay, so it's obviously not Perfect Dark – but it'll do for now! ROY KIMBER

Rating

▲ Thank God those fences are still working! The last thing you want are some raptors running around making life more difficult.

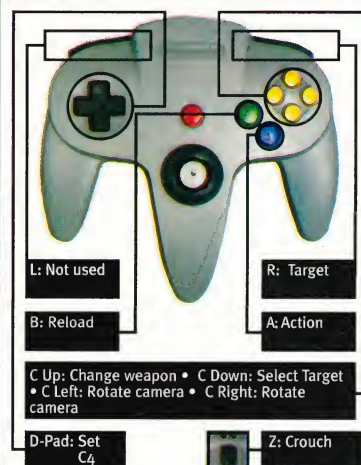

times you have to test your skills on open ground but it doesn't take more than a couple of hits before you're crawling across the floor counting the seconds until you die.

KILL KILL KILL!

It's when you're out in the open that you realise the game isn't suited to anything other than the 'sneaking around stealthily' approach. It's not that the controls are awkward – it's just that they aren't designed for all-out mad bullet-spraying combat. Matters aren't helped any by the annoying camera angles that the game has a habit of throwing at you. These can always be fixed at any time with a tap of the C-Left or C-Right buttons but you don't want to be playing around with the camera while you're trying to vanquish evil henchmen.

At first this doesn't seem like much of a problem because the enemy AI takes a while to kick in but as the game becomes more difficult the camera just becomes more annoying. Like any game this is something you can get used to though, especially when it's a game as playable as Winback. This title is genuinely fun to play and well worth getting, especially if you want something to pass the time until Perfect Dark arrives! ■

▼ Jean-Luc catches up with one of his buddies early on in the mission – just in time to see him get picked off by a sniper!

XPLORER 64 THE ULTIMATE CHEAT CART

Sponsored by Xplorer 64 from Blaze

Cheat Central is now sponsored by Blaze and to celebrate this Blaze is giving away five of its fantastic Xplorer 64 cheat cartridges to 64 MAGAZINE readers every issue!

To enter, just answer this question:

"Which member of the 64 Mag team recently left?"

Send your answer to Xplorer (38) compo at the usual address, to arrive before 20 April 2000!

SHADOW MAN

Play As Deadwing

Enter the playhouse and make your way to the room with the pool table, kill the creature you find there and then jump up onto the table to activate the cheat. The Book of Shadows then appears in the inventory, which will allow you to play as Deadwing.

MARIO PARTY 2

You're invited to the party of the year and someone's spiked the punch bowl with cheats!

Bowser Land

To access the final hidden board – Bowser Land – simply finish all of the other levels. Be warned though the banks on this level work in completely the opposite way to the ones on the other stages, so landing on one results in you losing money.

Mini-Games

Before you can buy any of the four-player, two-on-two or three-on-one mini-games you'll need to have played them in the main game at least once. When this is done they are available on the menu to buy.

Item Mini-Games

Once you've bought all the mini-games the Coaster Mini Game opens up. Complete this on the normal setting to buy all of the item mini-games.

Battle Mini-Games

If you managed to beat the Coaster Mini-Game on normal a harder difficulty becomes available. Complete it again on this setting and you should then be able to buy all of the battle mini-games.

Hidden Mini-Games

To open up the hidden mini-games, play the normal mini-games in the Mini-Game Park and succeed in them.

Free Coins

If you manage to roll more than one of the same number you're awarded free coins. Use the red mushroom to get a double and receive 10 coins or use the gold mushroom and get a triple to receive 50 coins!

Taunts

You can heckle the other players whilst playing by simply tapping the L button.

ECW Hardcore Revolution

Add some silly cheats to your ECW wrestling to soften up that serious gameplay.

Silly Cheats

Finish career mode successfully with any of the following wrestlers to activate the desired cheat:

WWF WRESTLEMANIA 2000

If men in tights is your type of thing, then these codes are for you!

Collect Weapons

Leave the ring and press C Up next to the crowd to collect each character's special weapons. For example Jeff Jarret gets his guitar and Prince Albert finds his tattoo kit.

Easy Win

Leave the ring and wait for the count out to begin. When it does wait until nine seconds and then pull your opponent out of the ring and jump in.

Time this right and your opponent will be counted out instead of you, giving you a win by default!

Skull Belt

To get Austin's smoking skull belt for use in the create a wrestler screen, win the Road to Wrestlemania game with Austin. If you loose a match return to the match listings screen then press B and exit out to reset the match you just lost.

Unmask Kane

If you've ever wondered what Kane looks like simply go to the edit player option, choose Kane and then remove his mask.

Manager Help

If your wrestler is the first person in the ring hold C Up, C Down and Z on controller three to give control of the manager to that port. If your wrestler is the second person in the ring hold C Up, C Down and Z on controller four to give control of the manager to that port. This cheat only works in single-player matches.

Hidden Characters

To play as any of the hidden characters perform the following tasks:

Cactus Jack
On Road to Wrestlemania you must defend the hardcore title three times.
Finish Road to Wrestlemania with any of the characters
Finish Road to Wrestlemania with any of the characters
Finish Road to Wrestlemania playing as the Undertaker
Win and successfully defend the WWF title on Road to Wrestlemania
Finish Road to Wrestlemania with Test

Jim Ross
Jerry Lawler
Paul Bearer
Shawn Michaels
Stephanie McMahon

Steal Taunts

Spin the stick counter clockwise to perform one of your opponent's taunts.

Steal Finishing Moves

While your attitude meter is flashing strong, grapple your opponent then press the stick in any direction whilst holding A and B to perform your opponent's finishing move.

SOUND STATION PRESS

"It's all highly stylised and attractive desktop fodder for the games player and not bad value either" PC PLAYER

"Whether you're plugging in your console system, a portable player, or your computer you'll be sure to 'feel the sound' the way it was meant to be"
THE CONTROL CENTER

"With a 300 watt sub-woofer, two satellite speakers, and separate volume and bass controls, you get clean stereo sound along with pumping bass undertones. Highly recommended"
4.5/5, OFFICIAL PLAYSTATION (US)

"Whether you want to enhance in-game sound effects of Resident Evil 2 or pump out some tunes from Wipeout 3, this makes the whole experience that much more involving"
9/10, EXTREME PLAYSTATION

"This thunderous little beast packs far more bass than most £200-£300 stereos, yet it only costs £50"

Take your place on the paper podium that is... ScoreZone!

March has proved to be a bit of a dry month with very few new scores coming in – are the top scores on these pages the very best of the best? This month we have a 64 MAGAZINE Scorezone first as two winners walk away sharing the Ultimate Player accolade. Congratulations go to David and Christopher Ryan from Derby for their more than adequate times on Goldeneye and Wave Race. A steering wheel is en route to you two – no fighting over it now!

ENTER THE ZONE!

Follow these easy steps to achieve entry to the 64 MAGAZINE annals of fame:

- Get a top score or time on an N64 game – without cheating!
- Use a camera or a video to record your time.

- List all your scores on a sheet of paper along with your name and address.

- Send the proof of your prowess to:

- Include an SAE if you want your photos/videos back.

New Games Needed!

We're all getting just a little bored of seeing scores for the same games time and time again, so we'd like to see a few new ones coming in! That's not to say that we don't still want scores for the others – if you reckon you can still shave a few seconds off of times for the classics like Goldeneye and Mario Kart 64 then go for it by all means! However, we'd also like to see some scores and times for more recent titles like Mario Party 2, Battletanx: Global Assault, Cyber Tiger, Roadsters, Star Wars Racer, Quake II, Jet Force Gemini and the Donkey Kong 64 arcade games. Get out there and get playing!

SCOREZONE CHALLENGE

Lock and load, it's zombie fragging time! Your challenge this month is to get the fastest possible completion time for Scenario A of Resident Evil 2 – playing as the lovely Claire Redfield.

THE ULTIMATE PLAYER!

There can be only one! Well, only one a month anyway. Every issue, the Scorezone gaming champion who picks up the coveted accolade of Ultimate Player, wins themselves a rather spiffy Top Drive 3-in-1 Steering Wheel from Logic 3! This cool piece of kit is compatible with your N64 (obviously) but also works with the PlayStation and the now antique Sega Saturn, so it's perfect for anyone flirting with more than one format.

Any readers not quite adept enough to make Ultimate Player can get the Top Drive wheel for £44.99 from Logic 3 on (0208) 902 2211!

Toy Story 2:

Buzz Lightyear To The Rescue!

Woody has been toynapped and it's up to his old pal Buzz to rescue him! Altogether now: "To infinity... and beyond!"

Contols

| Analogue Stick | Control Buzz |
| B Button | Fire laser |
| A Button | Jump/Double jump |
| C-Down | Spin attack |
| Z Button | Lock onto target |
| R Button | Visor mode |

Items

These are the items you need to look out for while you're trying to rescue Woody!

Green Laser

The Green Laser supercharges Buzz's normal laser, thus allowing him to destroy enemies with a single blast. This weapon has a limited charge so try to save it until you really need it!

Coins

You'll find these hidden around the various levels. You need to collect 50 of them to get a Pizza Planet token. Coins are also often left after you've shot an enemy so hunt 'em down if you're a few short.

Buzz

Find this green token and you get an extra life. These handy items reappear whenever you exit and then re-enter a level, so if you repeatedly do this you'll effectively give yourself an infinite supply!

Pizza Planet Tokens

Your main objective in the game is to collect these tokens. You need to find at least one to proceed to the next level. To complete the game totally you need all 50 Tokens.

Battery

After Buzz has taken a few hits he'll be a bit low on energy, so collect a battery to partially refill his bar. Like the Buzz tokens these power-ups also regenerate when you leave a level giving you a limitless supply.

Special Items

By collecting parts of Mr Potatohead you can gain access to the secret equipment scattered throughout the game. Once acquired the equipment becomes available on every level. There are five items to find.

Energy Shield

Get this useful item from Andy's House. The Energy Shield protects Buzz against all forms of injury from slime to laser beams. It's normally used to cross impassable areas.

Disk Launcher

The Launcher is found on the Under Construction level. This weapon fires homing disks at enemy creatures. It is effective at long range, even against shielded creatures.

Rocket Boots

Found in Al's Toy Barn, the boots give Buzz a temporary burst of speed. This can be useful when negotiating obstacle courses or competing in time challenge events.

Grappling Hook

Search the Elevator Hop for this handy device. Once collected use the lock-on button to target the red markers, then launch a hook to hoist Buzz up and over any obstruction.

Levitation Boots

Get the Levitation Boots from the Airport Infiltration level. The boots give you limited hovering ability for 20 seconds. Use them to reach otherwise unexplorable areas.

Special Moves

Glide

If you need to get a bit more distance on a regular jump then press and hold the A button. Buzz deploys his plastic wings and can float for a few seconds.

Laser

Buzz's laser is deadly to enemy toys and larger objects can be destroyed by supercharging the laser. Hold down B to charge up the energy bar then unleash it at your target.

Spin

The spin attack has multiple uses. It can destroy enemies and deflect projectiles. Like the laser, it can also be charged up by holding down the C Down button.

Lock On

For particularly tricky targets Buzz's visor view comes in handy. Enter the visor view by pressing R, then hold the Z button to lock onto your target. The visor view can also be used to look around a room.

Power Jump

Press A to jump then tap C Down whilst in the air. This causes Buzz to land heavily. As well as being a useful weapon this move can be used to bounce on objects and activate switches.

Level 1: Andy's House

Tips

Low on energy and lives? No problem! Simply return to the first level of the game and grab the two lives you find there. You can repeat this action as many times as you like!

Andy's Room

Buzz starts off in Andy's room. Head towards the desk and leap onto the wooden block. Then jump to the chair and from there onto the desk. Grab the coins and jump to the shelf on the left. Run left again and push the book from the shelf. Leap across the gap and onto the bed. Glide over to the desk then jump to the open drawer and climb up to the desk above. Grab onto the pole and shimmy up to the shelf, then grab hold of the zipline to get to the cot. Use visor mode to lock on and destroy the catches on the cot.

Jump out of it and leave the room by the now open door.

Robot Rampage

Take the right turn. Shimmy up the plant stem. From there jump to the wire and into the loft. Push the small box forward along the red line. Jump to the box and then to the centre platform to attack the robot. When it starts towards you, run away. After a while it pauses to recharge. You can then hit it with a single laser blast. To save time while you are running, then when the robot stops you can hit him with a powerful blast.

Losing Sheep

Drop down to the box that you pushed. Shove it over to the far wall. Climb up the shelf and jump on top of the boxes. Make your way to the joists overhead. Leap to the pipe then onto the main joist. From there move to the window and collect the sheep. Drop down from the loft and head down the stairs.

Proceed to the living room, jump onto sofa and collect the coins. Then head for the armchair in the corner and perform a power jump to bounce across the room. Cross over the shelves to the right and grab the second sheep. Now head over to the next shelf to get another coin. Head left and down the small stairs to the kitchen. Push the box to the high chair to reach the work surface. Dodge the flames from the cooker. Make your way to the top of the fridge. Jump to the top of the cupboards and push the scales off the end. Now power jump onto the scales and glide across the gap to grab the sheep from the far side.

Potato

Go back to the stairs and take the steps to the cellar. Leap over the green gunge and talk to Mr Potatohead. Go back to the living room and power jump onto the chair again. Note that Hamm is on the sofa. From the high ledge

Use the target mode to look around the levels. It gives you a close-up view of where you'll need to go.

drop onto the white railing and collect the ear that is under the ledge. Give it to Potatohead. You can now use the Energy Shield. Grab the Shield from the basement and cross the slime. Climb onto the plank with nails in it. Leap up to the boxes above. Make your way over to the zipline in the corner and slide down it to get another sheep. Now return to the Energy Shield.

Going Higher

Collect the Shield and retrace your steps. Instead of grabbing the zipline turn around and jump to the high ledge behind you. Push the box off the ledge. Arrange all three boxes so that you can reach the top shelf then climb them to retrieve another token. Exit the cellar and climb up the stairs. At the foot of the large staircase leading to the upstairs is the cat-flap. Jump through it to enter the garage. Find the small car and race it around the garage. Keep ramming the car to slow it down. Once it's been beaten a token is awarded.

The fifth and final sheep is in the garage. Leap onto the exhaust pipes and climb to the top of the room. Dodge the saw blades. Continue across the swing bars and over the car. The sheep is in the far corner. Take all five sheep back to the lady on the kitchen table for the last Pizza Planet

Level 2: Andy's Neighbourhood

MIA

Talk to the Sergeant on the steps of the house. He asks you to find five of his team. Soldier number one is in the garden. Search the holes and wait for the flare to appear. Stamp on the soldier as he launches the flare to destroy a hole. When all the holes are destroyed the first soldier gives up.

Soldier two is on the second swing near Rex. Opposite the set of swings is a small gap in the fence. Walk through here to get to the swimming pool. Climb the chair on the right. Leap across the plants and pots. Cross over to the plank of wood. Push the plank and climb the plant opposite. Make your way over the flagpoles to the plant at the end of the garden. Soldier three is at the top of the final plant.

Soldier four can be found near the red car, through the gap in the fence next to the buggy. Power-jump on both of the red buttons next to the car to lower the jack. Climb on top of the car and power jump on the boot to fly across to the washing machine in the corner. Push the plank down and jump onto the clothesline. Slide down the line, jumping between the lines to avoid the clothes and make your way to the peg basket at the end to find the soldier. The last remaining soldier is on the main tree just above Hamm. Climb up to get him and return to the Sergeant on the steps for a token.

Hamm On Five

Once you have 50 coins, go to the race track and climb the swings. Scale the tree to find Hamm on a branch.

Beat The Buggy

The buggy is tough to defeat on this level but it can be done! Walk to the race track and then challenge the buggy. Leap the obstacles and the muddy pools to avoid slowing down. Stay in front of the car and ram it so it stops. Do this for three laps to get a token. An easier way of beating the buggy is to get the Turbo Boost from Al's Toy Barn and return to the level later on.

Love A Duck

Go to the swimming pool. In the centre of the pool you can see a token floating in the air. To get to it walk over to the deflated duck, power jump on the foot pump rapidly until the duck is fully inflated. Now it will drop into the pool. From the edge of the pool jump onto the duck. Use a power jump to bounce high into the air and retrieve the token.

High As A Kite

Go back to the swings and climb the tree. Move past Hamm and up to the place where you found the soldier. Continue up the tree. Walk to the bottom of the plank of wood. Run up it and leap off the end. Ignore the rope and jump the gap next to the wooden pole. Scale the second plank and cross the gap. Climb up to the very top of the treehouse. Time to take down the kite!

Stand in the centre of the treehouse platform. Take aim at the Zurg kite and fire a supercharged laser blast at it. It's difficult, as you'll need to stay in the centre of the platform to avoid being swept off it. Once it is down a token is awarded.

Tips

The double jump allows Buzz to reach far-off ledges. Press the jump button once, then as he reaches the apex, press it again to get maximum air.

Level 3: Bombs Away

The first boss is a doddle. We don't know who's flying the biplane but they'd better get down to Specsavers and purchase some bifocals. Charge up the laser and use the R button to target the incoming plane. Hold the Z button to lock onto it and unleash a blast. If you hit it the plane will spin out of control and begin another attack run. If you miss don't worry as the bombs usually go wide of the mark. Keep targeting and shooting the plane until it crashes and burns.

▲ Remember your first school lessons on primary colours? Well they could come in handy here, for this paint mixing puzzle.

Level 4: Construction Yard

Little Tikes

Walk left to the pallets in front of the workers' hut. Talk to the Foreman and he asks you to find his five missing Tikes. The first can be found in the wheelbarrow next to your starting point. Push the grey concrete block to the wheelbarrow and jump inside. Tike two is hidden inside the workmen's hut. Enter the hut through the green door at the top of the steps. Leap over the slime-ridden floor and make your way to the chair. From there jump to the desk. Climb the pole and leap over to the grey drawers: the Tike is on top of them.

Make your way to the bulldozer to find Tike three. He's standing next to the seat. Activate the dozer scoop by power jumping on the button inside the cabin. Jump into the scoop when it lowers then leap over the girders. Make your way round the girders to find Tike four. Continue to the top of the construction. Ignore the boss and walk along the top of the yellow crane to find the final Tike.

Potato Parts

Halfway up the central construction is Mr Potatohead's Ear. Return it to him and he gives you access to the Disk Launcher. Mr Potatohead can be found to the left of the hut.

Painting Puzzle

Enter the hut and go over to the chair, leaping the green slime. Climb onto the cabinet and drop onto the first drawer when it opens. Leap up to the top of the cabinet where the Tike was. Leap the gap and jump over to the cube: activate it to get information about paint. You have to mix three colours: purple, orange and green. To mix purple, push the grey paint pot underneath the red nozzle and power jump on the button. Do the same with the blue nozzle. Push the pot back to its start point to activate the colour. To mix orange, activate the red and yellow nozzles. For green, add blue and yellow paint. Once all the colours are lit, a token is awarded.

Slinky's Challenge

Cross the wet cement at the base of the construction and talk to Slinky the dog. He asks you to find five Spanners in 60 seconds. The spanners are located above the wet cement. Use small jumps to cross the cement quickly and retrieve the Spanners. Return them to Slinky within the time limit to earn another token.

Drilla Killa

Getting to the Drilla is a tougher task than actually beating him! Climb onto the dozer's scoop to get to the girders. Walk left. Dodge the moving drills and the rivets. Make your way to the lever. Power-jump onto it. Leap onto the moving beam to your right. Run to the end of it, then get onto the right-hand red girder as it rises. Continue round the next set of girders until you reach another switch and power jump on it. Walk forwards to the stripy bit of girder then leap onto the moving beam. Leap onto the next moving beam and from there to the red girder opposite. Walk over to the hooks on chains and make your way across them. Jump over to the final switch. Activate it and ride the two beams to the top. Leap over to solid ground. Climb the wooden strut.

You now face the Drilla. If you need energy or disks then check out the corners of the roof. To defeat the Drilla lock on using the Z button then hold down A to pepper him with disks. This gets you a token.

Hunting For Hamm

With 50 Coins in your possession start looking for Hamm. Check out the yellow generator next to the wheelbarrow where you found one of the Tikes.

Tips

During the race challenges, the opposing cars come to a dead stop if they hit Buzz. You can use this to your advantage by deliberately blocking their progress.

Level 5: Alleys And Gullies

Balloon Ride

Take the right turn and jump up onto the bin using the boxes. Slide down the wire ahead, but be wary of the electric charge travelling down it. Leap onto the skip and pass through the gap in the fence. Use the box to leap up onto the melon stand opposite and then jump across to the sliding planks of wood on the right. Leap onto the small wooden table to grab the disks for the Disk Launcher. Go back onto the melon stand. Use the Disk Launcher to destroy the small robot with a shield and then jump over to where it was standing. Cross over to the small red button and power jump on the button to activate the fan. Drop onto the table below and then grab the balloon string as it floats up. Land on the bin and collect the first token.

Slinky's Bones

Go back to your start point walk in the opposite direction, to the end of the alley. Push the plank down and shove the box across the water and against the fence. Scale the box and jump through the gap in the fence. Cross over to Slinky who's on the centre island by using the floating debris. Talk to him and he asks you to recover five bones in 30 seconds. There's a catch: each bone is above the water. One wrong move and you have to do the whole thing again. This task is easier than it looks though. Use a single jump to reach each bone then quickly tap A to get more air and return to the platform. If you miss a bone just press A to double-jump back to the platform and try again. Once all the bones have been handed over, Slinky gives you another token.

Duck Patrol

Near your start point is a small plastic duck swimming in the rain water. It asks you to rescue five Ducklings from around the level. The first is on top of the canopy near the umbrella where Hamm is hiding. At the end of the street near the balloon is a watery hole. Duckling two is down here along with an Extra Life. Duckling three is over by Slinky the dog. From his platform look to the right, leap across the hole in the wall near the two coins and drop down the gap to get the duckling. Duckling four is hidden in one of the windows just before you get to the Clown. The final Duckling is lying in the guttering, opposite the entrance to the Clown.

Clown

You can't reach the Clown until you get the Grappling Hook from Level 10 (Elevator Hop). Once you have it head for the purple dumpster. Collect the Grapple and use it on the dumpster. Climb the ladder to reach the fire escape. Use the Grapple to get up the edge then ride the zipline to the opposite building. Use the Grapple to reach the next handrail. Walk along the rail and use it to cross to the next zipline, above the window. Slide down the line and then climb onto the next handrail. Grab the high ladder to get to next level. Jump on the rail. Ride the zipline. Continue working your way to the top until you reach a drainpipe. Scale the pipe, grab the overhead wires and make your way to the far drainpipe. Shimmy up and jump into the guttering on the left-hand side. Enter the tunnel at the end to face the Clown.

Stay ahead of the Clown and use charged laser beams to destroy him. The Clown is faster than you so change directions at random intervals to stop him catching up. Collect the token from his red nose.

Hambrella

Underneath the umbrella near to where you recovered the first token is Hamm. When you have 50 coins go and talk to him to get another token.

Tips

The double jump allows Buzz to reach distant ledges. Press the jump button once then as he reaches the limit of his leap, press it again to get maximum air.

Level 6: Slime Time

This is the first boss which actually requires some beating. The Slime bounces around the area trying to crush Buzz. Wait until he jumps then run in the opposite direction to avoid him. Occasionally the Slime stands still and launches a homing fireball at Buzz. It lasts for about four seconds – so just stay ahead of it.

To defeat the Slime use your laser on rapid fire. The Slime shrinks each time you hit it. You need to shrink it back into its can before it hurts you seriously. The Slime grows back quite quickly so you need to hit it repeatedly. The fourth time the Slime is canned it dies.

▲ You need to get the grappling hook from the elevator level before you can scale the buildings in the alley.

Level 7: Al's Toy Barn

Mr Potatohead's Part

Make your way onto the first checkout counter. Talk to Mr Potatohead and he'll ask you to find his next missing body part. Get on top of the cash register to the left. Double-jump across the gap to reach the counter opposite. From there go to the next till and leap onto the zipline. Quickly double-jump off the line and onto the third checkout. Grab the missing piece and go back to the first checkout. Mr Potatohead then gives you access to the Rocket Boots.

Chicken Lickin

Walk down the second aisle and talk to the Chicken. Jump onto the skateboard then bounce on the trampoline. Leap left and grab the zipline. Slide down the line and grab the first Chick. Return to the Chicken and he'll challenge you again: this time for a token.

Here Chicky Chicky

Walk down the first aisle towards the basketballs. Climb onto the counter. Jump through the bike. Scale the rope and leap through the bicycle wheels. Jump to the ledge with the skateboard. Get the second Chick. Ride the board through the slime and push the box to climb up to the hatch. Get Chick three and drop down into the main store. Run over to the rodeo machine on the right. Power jump on the lever to start it. Jump to Potatohead's counter and collect the Rocket Boots. Use them to reach the Supermarket trolley on the other side of the slime. From there make your way over to the rodeo machine and leap on it. This should propel you into Chick four.

The last Chick is hidden in the room with the boxes, opposite the office. You'll need to access the Levitation Boots from Level 13 (Airport Infiltration) to get it. In other words you'll have to come back later in the game to complete this task. When you have the boots, hover over the pile of boxes and you'll find the last Chick.

In A Hamm

Once you have 50 coins enter the office and climb on the table. Hamm is sitting on top of it waiting for your well-earned coinage.

Office Hours

From Hamm leap onto the small desk. Collect the disk from the Launcher and aim at the padlocks on the drawers. Shoot them off and the drawers start opening and closing. Leap over to the drawers and use them to reach the ledge above. Collect the token from here.

Walk The Dinosaur

Enter the box room opposite the office. Climb up to the ledge near Rex. Talk to Rex and he tells you about the monster. Make sure you have full ammo for the Disk Launcher and then hop into the ventilation shaft to the left. Drop down the rope and then use the Z button to lock onto the Dinosaur. Unleash a disk and he becomes invulnerable for a few seconds, so run off before he can hit you with a fireball. Repeat this method of attack until the beast is vanquished and you can then collect the last Pizza Planet token.

Level 8: Al's Space Land

Tips

When falling from a great height press the jump button and push in a direction. This helps Buzz control his descent and improves his manoeuvrability.

Buzz Off

Grab the Green Laser power-up and then go towards the moveable box. Shove it against the other boxes, then climb up to the mobiles. Leap from wire to wire to make your way to the Alien and collect him. Leap from the mobile over to the two boxes. From there enter the moonscape. The Buzzmobile attacks with homing missiles. Use the green laser to inflict damage on him then circle the buggy.

Leap the missiles as they come towards you and use Buzz's spin attack to shield him. Once the Buzzmobile is toast you get a token.

Grab Hold Of This

Return to your start point and enter the aisle marked 'Arcade'. Leap onto the cup to get up the nearest machine. From the top of the machine cross to the end of the aisle. There should be a grabbing machine containing a token at the end. Leap to this machine and power jump onto the button. This moves the crane horizontally. Press the button again to move it vertically. Stand at an angle so you can see the shadow of the crane and line it up with the token.

Space Race

Go down the third aisle. Climb the boxes to reach the top shelf and have a few words with the UFO. He challenges you to a race. You basically have to slide along the ziplines to outrun the UFO. You have to jump from line to line. If you fall off it's back to the start for Buzz! Luckily the lines are marked. All you need to do is jump when you reach the red patch in order to grab hold of the next zipline. Once you reach the end a token is awarded.

Alien

After getting the first Alien go over to the arcade. Get on top of the blue machine next to the grabber. From there jump to the top of the ball machine. Drop down the hole in the top of it to the balls below. Jump over to Alien two and add him to your collection. Return to the start point and go down the first corridor. Leap on to the boxes. From there cross the swing poles and get to the top of the shelf. Start jumping from shelf to shelf and make your way to the Energy Shield. Collect it and jump down. Run along the aisle until you come to a set of stacked boxes. Scale these. Grab the overhead ropes. Slide along them then drop onto the box containing Alien three. From there continue along the tops of the boxes to reach Alien four. The last Alien is hidden at the end of the zipline race.

Pigs In Space

Just before you get to the fourth Alien, drop down the gap between the boxes. Hamm is down here waiting for your 50 coins.

Level 9: Toy Barn Encounter

This boss is quite tough. Shoot his body repeatedly to cause one of the six capsules surrounding him to detach. Once separated a capsule spills enemies into the arena. Defeat these then target the body of the Craft again. Keep doing this until all the capsules have been destroyed. Now the Craft comes after you using its homing laser. Lock onto it and fire a charged laser beam, then run away until it stops flashing. Keep doing this until the Craft is destroyed.

Level 10: Elevator Hop

Potato Parts

About-face and enter the small alcove to talk to Mr. Potatohead. He asks you to find his next missing body part. Walk to the flooded electrical room. Move to the left of the first bar, jump and swing across the bars. Climb to the machines and make your way round the top of the room. Grab the red zipline. Cross to the other side of the room. Grab the missing piece and the first Clockwork Mouse. Return to Potatohead and collect the Grappling Hook.

Tips

Some creatures reflect Buzz's laser beams. Either spin into them or do a power jump to take them out.

Tips

Keep the laser charged when Buzz is running about. Then when you run into an enemy toy it can be destroyed with a single blast.

Towering Inferno

Use the Grappling Hook to head up the ventilation shaft taking care to avoid the deadly flames. Run through the shaft killing all the enemies you find. Grab Mouse two beside Rex on the left-hand side and then continue to the top of the shaft. Talk to Papa Mouse. Climb on the seat then leap over to the console. Now power jump on the buttons to line up the wire. The colour of the wires moved is indicated on each button.

Once the wire is connected the lift doors slide open. Collect the token from the doors. Power-jump on the lower switch to activate the fan, this makes getting back to the top much easier.

Mouse Hunt

Collect the third Mouse from the wall of the lift shaft. Make your way to the top of the shaft by riding the top of the lifts and jumping from platform to platform. Collect Mouse four from here. Power-jump on the switch to activate the lower fan. Go back to Papa Mouse. Get on top of the console and grab the final Mouse from the ceiling. Give them to Papa Mouse for a token.

Spider

Travel to the top of the lift shaft using the tops of the elevators. Jump into the hole to the right of the shaft. Here you face the Spider Monster. This guy is very hard to beat. He fires web balls that stick to the floor and injure Buzz. He also has a flame-thrower that's quite lethal at close range. Taking care to avoid the gaping hole in the floor, circle the Spider and hit him with charged laser bursts. Periodically the fans at the base of the area blow both of you into the air. When this happens move Buzz towards the wall. Keep shooting the Spider until he drops revealing a token.

Shaft

At the top of the lift shaft there is a ventilation duct. Talk to the Mouse within. Drop down the shaft as quickly as you can. Use the jump button to avoid the gaps in the pipe. Beat the token to the bottom and grab it when it comes down.

Fried Hamm

With 50 coins in your possession the hunt for Hamm begins. Think back to the start of the level. That's right, you passed him in the electrical room when you went looking for Mr. Potatohead's missing body parts. Drop some coins in his slot to get the final token.

Level 11: Al's Penthouse

Horse Course

Walk over to the Horse and have a few words. He asks you to collect five Horseshoes in 30 seconds. The first Shoe is in plain view. The next is to the right. Follow the trail of Shoes onto the sofa until you have all five then go back to the Horse and collect your first Pizza Planet token.

push the next box. Continue over to the TV and grab the energy from the top. Jump back to the boot and get on top of it. Use it to reach the cupboard above. Collect Rabbit two from the top of the cupboard. Power jump on the red button to deactivate the cannon. Continue along and drop into the sand box. Run to the red button at the end and power jump on it to deactivate the second cannon.

The Bandit himself is easy to defeat. Stay at a distance and use your spin move to deflect the cannonballs he fires then shoot him with the laser. Once he is destroyed you will collect the next Pizza token.

onto one of the floating sponges. Cross over to the sink and power jump on the blue button you find there. Use sponges to reach the shower door. Double-jump to grab hold of the door. Run along the top of the shower and press the final blue button. Go back across the sponges and cross the top of the cabinets to get the fourth Rabbit.

Walk to Rex and go through the gap on his left. Shoot the lock off the fridge door and use the shelves to reach the kitchen table. Jump from there and run to the scales. Use the scales to reach the cupboard above. Run to the cannon, then to the lights. Cross the lights quickly so Buzz doesn't fall. Step on the red button to knock out the cannon, then proceed to the final Rabbit. Jump onto the kitchen table and return the Rabbits to Jessie.

Hot Tub

Got 50 coins? Enter the bathroom and jump into the tub to find Hamm.

Tips

By charging up Buzz's spin attack you can steer him like a top into enemy toys. Remember though that when Buzz stops spinning he'll be dizzy for a few seconds.

Runaway Train

Turn left from your start point and walk over to the moveable box. Shove it through the door on the right and move it forwards next to the train. Leap onto the train and use the Cube. Collect the Rabbit then jump over to the train track. Move along the track to the first switch and then power jump onto the box. Use the three track switches to move the train into the dead-end siding then head to end of the track and push the box there along to the rear of the large train. Get on the box and leap to the train roof. Power-jump onto the red button there to deactivate the cannon and collect the next token.

Bandit Bailey

Go to the lower box and push it back out of the room. Shove it round the corridor into the next room along. Jump up to the table above. Walk along and

Bunny Wunnies

Go back to the living room and get onto the sofa. Leap to the table then on to the handrail. Cross the rail and jump onto the fireplace. Scale the lampshade opposite. Climb to the high shelf. Leap onto the lights and use them to cross the gap. Power-jump on the red button. Double-jump over to Rabbit three.

Move to the living room table and target the red lock to the right of the fireplace. Shoot it then pass through the tunnel. Enter the bathroom. Jump onto the top of the bath. Power-jump on the blue switch and then quickly jump

Level 12: Evil Emporer Zurg

Zurg is armed with a ball-firing gun. The yellow balls are unguided and can only hit Buzz if he stands still for too long. The green balls are homing and chase Buzz around the map until they run out of power or are deflected by his wings.

Zurg is immune to your laser blasts. The only way to defeat him is with the spin attack. Wait for Zurg to hover close to the ground then use a supercharged spin move to knock him senseless. Zurg has to be hit about ten times before he finally succumbs.

Level 13: Airport Infiltration

Tips

You need at least 40 Tokens to face the final boss. If you haven't got them then talk to Rex and make sure that you've completed all the challenges.

Tips

If you need more coins to give to Hamm then try destroying enemies. Most of them leave behind a coin when they explode.

Weight A Moment

Walk round the corridor and power jump onto the blue cases to reach the conveyer belt above. Jump on top of the brown case and use it to leap to the pole. Swing over the pole to get to the next belt. Do the same here and jump off the third belt when it takes you into a new area. Talk to the Weight-lifter in the corner. You now have to find five Weights in 60 seconds. The first is to the left of the Weight-lifter. The second is in the plane room next to it. Return to the room with the Weight-lifter. Run to the conveyer belt and climb the box. Collect the third Weight. Drop down and walk under the conveyer. Collect the fourth Weight by the snake. Enter the next room to find the final Weight.

Potato Wedges

Walk to the luggage room near the Weight-lifter. Here you find Mr Potatohead. Walk to the plane room (the other room adjacent to the Weight-lifter), go to the conveyer belt and push the wheel. Jump onto the wheel to reach the belt. Use the belt to get over to the wing. Walk to end of the wing and jump onto the next wing. Leap over to the ledge. Collect the missing piece and return it to Mr Potatohead to get the Levitation Boots.

Prospector

Climb the stack of suitcases in the room. Collect the Levitation Boots and hold A to make Buzz rise. When he can go up no further move to the left of the cases to continue upwards. When the Boots run out jump over the conveyer belt containing the Prospector.

This dude is immune to laser blasts so use your spin attack to destroy him. The Prospector strikes with a flaming brand: jump to avoid it. Once this bearded gibbon has been toppled you can collect the Token.

Plane Crazy

Return to the ledge where you found Mr Potatohead's missing part and jump to the platform above. Swing across the pole and climb up the next set of ledges. Jump from pole to pole until you reach the Levitation Boots. Use them to glide to the top of the plane but watch out for the blast from the engine. Collect a token from the end of the plane's nose.

Tike Airways

In the plane room is a small plane with a Tike pilot. He asks you to find his five Passengers. The first is near the start of the level. On reaching the conveyer belt with the blue suitcase power jump onto it to get up to the high ledge. Make your way across the tops of the machines using the light fittings to get the Tike. Tike two is hidden above the Prospector boss. Jump onto the blue case at the end of the belt. Bounce to the ledge above. Scale the pole and leap to the wire. The Tike is standing on the ledge. Tike three is in the plane room. Climb to the ledge where you found the piece of Mr Potatohead and leap to the level above. Continue upwards until you reach the vertical stripy poles. See those jet engines on the wall? Well the Tike is on the top one. Leap to the poles next to the engines and climb up to reach the Tike.

The fourth Tike is hidden on the ledge beneath the Levitation Boots on the dismantled plane. Look down from the ledge then jump carefully onto him. The final Tike is the killer. In the Weight-lifter room get back on the conveyer belt. Power-jump onto a blue case and use it to reach the belt above. Do the same on the next two belts. Leap the gap in the next belt and keep going up. When you reach the top, jump and grab onto the horizontal bar. From there get to the platform next to the wire. Slide down the wire to the Tike. This is easier on paper than it is in practice.

Pig Can Fly

When you leap on the X-ray machines to get the first Tike turn left instead of right. Hamm is on top of the office. Give him 50 coins.

Level 14: Tarmac Trouble

zones one and two. Climb into the driver's cab to find it on the seat.

The second Case is on top of the plane. Use the windsock to reach it. Walk to the end of the plane wing. Leap over to the conveyer belt near zone six. Collect Case three from on top. Case four is bouncing around zone four. Get back on the plane's wing. Look for the zone eight marking. Leap from the plane onto the block marked with an '8'. The final Case is here.

Slinky

In the middle of the airport next to the windsock is Slinky. Leap across the poisonous grass to reach him. He will challenge you to run across the path and get back to the tarmac without jumping or touching the grass. If you manage to do this a token will be awarded. You will have 65 seconds to complete the task.

Helicopter

Use the zipline at the end of Rex's trolley to reach the light area. Jump on the pole to get to the roof. Now for the puzzle. You must get the lights at the bottom to match the lights at the top. Turn off the green bulb and light the yellow one. Step on the far right button and the second button from the left. Climb up to the helipad and collect the token.

Blacksmith

On the roof of the building in zone seven is the blacksmith. Get over to him by sliding on the wings of the plane. Jump towards the aerial and prepare to do battle. The Blacksmith attacks with his hammer in much the same way as the previous Prospector boss. The blue shockwave he creates homes in on Buzz so use your double-jump to stay clear. Buzz's spin attack is the only way to deal with this moustache-wearing freak.

Hamm

Hamm is in zone five next to the slime pool. Deliver him 50 coins for to get a token.

Tike's Missing Luggage

In zone three is a Tike trolley. He is missing five sets of luggage. The first Case is hidden in Rex's trolley between

Level 15: The Final Showdown

In this final boss battle Buzz faces three enemies: the Prospector, the Bandit and the Blacksmith. They all share the same energy bar and attack simultaneously. As before, staying on the move is essential. Attack the Blacksmith first as he is the most dangerous. Spin into him about seven times and he drops. Next go after the Prospector using the spin attack. The Bandit is the easiest to defeat: deflect his shots with your wings then counterattack with a spin or two.

Welcome to a whole new section of 64 MAGAZINE! We know that you can't possibly spend every minute of your waking day using your N64 (well... all right, most of you can't) and so we thought it was time that the contents of 64 MAGAZINE reflected this. That's why from now on this little area of the mag will be dedicated to movies, books, toys, gadgets and anything else that we think looks interesting – or to put it another way: anything Not Nintendo!

Simpsons Comics A Go-Go

You'd be forgiven for thinking that The Simpsons – which has to be one of the funniest TV programmes ever – might not translate well to comic form. Thing is: if you thought that then you'd be wrong! Simpsons Comics A Go-Go is a collection of various Simpsons comic issues and it's absolutely brilliant! The writing is easily as good as the cartoon itself and every page has endless visual gags crammed into each frame giving you the chance enjoy lots of little details that you'd probably miss in the cartoon. Available now at £7.99 from Titan Books Simpsons Comics A Go-Go is a must for all fans of the series and if you've never seen the cartoon then let this book get you hooked!

Alien Head Birth Pod

Sometimes you find yourself liking something in defiance of logic. Quite why the Alien Head Birth Pod should be in any way attractive is beyond comprehension! It's slimy, it's gross, it's twisted, it's... fantastic! Each pod contains an alien head, two alien foetuses and some amniotic gel. The concept behind it is that you fold the foetuses and gel into the head and then sit back and watch as the head gives birth. And yes, it is as grim as it sounds! But that hasn't stopped the Alien Heads from becoming one of the most sought-after items in the 64 MAGAZINE offices. The Alien Head Birth Pod from H Grossman costs £2.99 and can be found in all good toy shops now!

The Stone

It comes in an arcane pyramidal box. It's black with a unique six symbol pattern on it. The Stone is a mysterious pendant that grants you access to the an Internet site called The Immediate which contains all manner of strange, mind-bending puzzles. Having taken the US by storm The Stone is now available over here and, well... it's great! Basically once you've got your Stone (which in itself is pretty cool simply as a fashion accessory) you can then access the website with its dedicated chat areas. Here you can exchange clues with other puzzle freaks, learn more about the mystery of The Stone and search for your 'Stonemate' (every Stone has an identical twin and if you find the person with the pair to yours you are then able to access more complex puzzles together). Apparently The Stone is popular with many Hollywood celebrities so you might find yourself swapping puzzle clues with your favourite movie star! The Stone costs £14.99 and you can check out more info on it at www.thestone.net.

Shiloh 2

If you like your movies with dogs in them, then look no further than Warner Bros Shiloh 2. Shiloh 2 follows the adventures of a dog – Shiloh – and his new owner Marty Peterson who rescued the pup from abusive owner Judd Travers. Unfortunately the rather unfriendly ex-owner wants to take Shiloh back! Cue a bizarre campaign by Marty to prove that nasty old Judd Travers isn't really as bad as he seems, as he tries to make sure that he, Shiloh and the mean-spirited Travers all live happily ever after! Heart-warming entertainment for film-fans of all ages!

Battle Chasers: A Gathering Of Heroes

Battle Chasers is a fantasy graphic novel set in a world where magic and technology exist side by side. The plot centres around a group of colourful characters: Gully – a small girl with magical gloves; Knolan – a powerful mage; Garrison – the greatest swordsman ever; Calibretto – a war golem and Monika – a gorgeous, deadly thief. This book charts the coming together of the unlikely band of heroes, united by the mysterious disappearance of Gully's father Aramus. With a complex story and absolutely fantastic artwork this should be a definite buy for fantasy and sci-fi fans alike. Battle Chasers is available now at £10.99 from Titan Books.

Rushmore

Rushmore from Touchstone Home Video is a black comedy about a gifted yet unruly teenager called Max Fischer (played by Jason Schwartzman) who attends the elite Rushmore Academy. Max manages to juggle editorship of the school paper and captaincy of various societies with a flair for causing enough trouble to keep him under constant threat of expulsion. Everything's going fine in his life until Max develops a crush on teacher Miss Cross (Olivia Williams), who just happens to be the object of affection for wealthy steel tycoon Mr Blume (Bill Murray). Rushmore is a great movie which manages to be both funny and touching at the same time and it's in the shops now for the recommended retail price of £14.99.

Spawn: Devastation

If you're a graphic novel fan – or for that matter a movie fan – then you've probably heard of Spawn. Originally an elite black-ops agent, Spawn found himself in Hell after being ruthlessly murdered at the behest of his former boss. After making a deal with the Demonic forces in charge of the underworld Spawn then returned to Earth with superhuman powers where he was supposed to fight for the bad guys in a war between Heaven and Hell but – as fans will know – he rebelled and started using his powers for good (well... sort of). Spawn: Devastation pushes the storyline even further as the tangled web of Spawn's current and previous lives begins to draw tighter and he's forced to take drastic action. It's weird, it's gruesome and it's required reading for all graphic novel enthusiasts. Available now at £9.99 from Titan Books.

Virtual Reality Boxing

Virtual Reality Boxing is the first in the Virtual Reality World series from H Grossman. The game consists of a headset, battery pack and gloves which give you the chance to play a boxing videogame in a rather unique way. Rather than slapping buttons to fight, you punch – for real! The VR headset shows you an opposing boxer who reels with every punch that you throw. Before you get too excited though we have to warn you that graphically this game isn't that hot – it's about the same standard as one of the old Game & Watch titles that Nintendo used to produce. Basically what you've got here is a novelty game which is amusing for a while and great to watch someone else playing (get your mates to try it then sit back and watch them flailing at thin air!) It's a nice idea – just don't expect a VR version of Ready 2 Rumble! Virtual Reality Boxing retails at £39.99. Call 0141 613 2525 for stockists.

| Bomberman 64 | Nintendo | 1-4 ● ● ● ● | 9 | 80% | Bomb-chucking platformer with disappointing battle game. |
| Bomberman Hero | Nintendo | 1 ● ● ● ● | 21 | 49% | Shamefully easy platform adventure. |
| Brave Spirits Wrestling | Hudson | 1-4 ● ● ● ● | 12 | 65% | Sub-par Japanese wrestling game. |
| Buck Bumble | Ubi Soft | 1-2 ● ● ● ● | 18 | 82% | Weapon-filled insect shooter with bad fogging. |
| Bust-A-Move 2 | Acclaim | 1-2 ● ● ● ● | 15 | 91% | Simple but addictive puzzle/battle game. |
| Bust-A-Move 3DX | Acclaim | 1-4 ● ● ● ● | 22 | 90% | As BAM2, but now for four players! |
| California Speed | Midway | 1-2 ● ● ● ● | 26 | 45% | Tragically bad sequel to Cruis'n USA and World. |
| Carmageddon 64 | SCI | 1-2 ● ● ● ● | 35 | 4% | Yes, four percent. The worst N64 game ever! |
| Castlevania | Konami | 1 ● ● ● ● | 24 | 85% | Spooky vampire adventure, let down by dodgy camera. |
| Castlevania: Legacy of Darkness | Activision | 1 ● ● ● ● | 37 | 86% | Very similar to the first game but great fun all the same! |
| Chameleon Twist | Ocean | 1-4 ● ● ● ● | 10 | 64% | Simple and easy tongue-orientated platformer. |
| Chameleon Twist 2 | Sunsoft | 1 ● ● ● ● | 23 | 75% | More of the same, and still too easy. |
| Charlie Blast's Territory | THE Games | 4 ● ● ● ● | 29 | 68% | Odd puzzle game with a good multiplayer mode. |
| Chef's Luv Shack | Acclaim | 1-4 ● ● ● ● | 34 | 69% | South Park version of Mario Party – more a renter than a buyer. |
| Chopper Attack | GT Interactive | 1 ● ● ● ● | 18 | 70% | Plodding Desert Strike-style game with clumsy controls. |

TEST OF TIME

Issue 32 finds itself dragged kicking and screaming into the hindsight spotlight this month with its world exclusive cover game the first title under the microscope. How will our trio of now aging games fare? Read on to find out...

40 WINKS

GT Interactive • £39.99 • Original Rating: 80%
It appears that we may have been a little over excited about our exclusive on this because playing it six months or so on, 40 Winks just doesn't have the same appeal. The characters still look cute but it's just not much fun!
Destined to gather dust. 69%

HYBRID HEAVEN

Konami • £49.99 • Original Rating: 81%
This RPG-esque adventure impressed us fairly well when it first came in and to be honest nothing much has changed! The summing up described it as "a good game which could have been great if not for minor flaws" and this still stands. Not bad!
81%

RAT ATTACK

Mindscape • £34.99 • Original Rating: 80%
Rat Attack has a very retro feel about it but the totally bizarre madcap arcade gameplay keeps you coming back for more time after time. Multiplayer mode guarantees that this is one game which is difficult to put away and so it keeps its score!

BEST OF THE BITS

If you want to plug some extra bits into your N64 to enhance your gaming pleasure, these are the ones we recommend most highly!

Nintendo Controller

NINTENDO • £19.99

Without a doubt the best controller you can get for the N64 – since it comes from Nintendo, you'd certainly hope so! If you want to engage in multiplayer fun we heartily recommend that you get yourself a full set of these.

Grand Prix Racing Wheel II

JOYTECH • (01525) 852900 • £59.99

One of the best wheels around, the Grand Prix – which has an official Jordan team licence – has responsive controls and a realistic feel. It's also very easy to set up, making it a definite race-winner!

4 Meg Memory Card

DATL • £29.99

Non-Nintendo memory cards have a reputation for being somewhat dodgy and prone to losing your saved game data, but Datl's cards are generally considered the most reliable of the bunch. The 4 Meg model is equal to 16 Nintendo Controller Paks, and lets you access all the pages at once instead of having to flip between them.

Ultra Racer 64

INTERACT • £29.99

It might look weird, but this is actually a very good mini steering wheel. It's ideally suited to F-1 World Grand Prix, so if you're a Formula 1 addict, this is the one for you!

| Shadowgate 64 | THE Games | 1 ● ● ● ● | 30 | 45% | Brain-grindingly boring adventure with no action. |

64 MAG'S MOST WANTED

PERFECT DARK

It just keeps moving backwards! Currently stuck on 30 June, surely it can't go back any further? Rare wouldn't go and do that to us, would they? Well... would they?

ZELDA: THE MASK OF MUJULA

The first game was outstanding but hideously delayed. Are we gonna have to wait as long for this one to arrive too?

ISS MILLENNIUM

Let's face it, N64 footie fans are going to buy this one regardless of how good it is so maybe we should look on it as reassuring that they want to get everything 'just so' before release.

BANJO-TOOIE

Come on Rare, we're waiting for you! Everything we've seen so far predicts that this sequel will be a cracker, but when's it going to finally arrive? You'll know as soon as we do!

TUROK 3

Acclaim have just officially acknowledged its existence but they're being strangely reticent as to details beyond a handful of screenshots and some background. Let's face it though: it's gonna be huge!

| Game Name | Company | 👤🎮🏠🏆🇬🇧 | Issue | Score | Comment |
